MOON MAKES LIKE PUNKIN' IN SKY

The Night of the Great Punkin' draws nigh, and the Man in the Moon is trying his best to look like a punkin' in the sky. Evidence of this was recorded on Bernard Ave., Kelowna, Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Black Mountain looms in the background. Shot was taken with a 250 mm lens, which tends to compress the scene, with a time exposure of an eighth of a second. (Courier photo by Kent Stevenson)

MLA Quits Cariboo Seat To Give Bonner a Chance

VICTORIA (CP) — Attorney-General Bonner will make a second attempt to gain a seat in British Columbia's 28th legislative assembly in a byelection in Cariboo riding Nov. 28.

The election writ was issued Thursday, three days after former deputy speaker William Speare (SC-Cariboo) submitted his written resignation to make way for Mr. Bonner.

In Vancouver, Mr. Speare said he had been sworn to secrecy until a byelection was ordered during Thursday's cabinet meeting.

Mr. Speare, who carried Cariboo by 1,300 votes over an NDP candidate in the Sept. 12 election, said Mr. Bonner is needed during a special session of the legislature in December.

It is presumed that a special session of the legislature would be held to ratify a new federal-provincial tax-sharing agreement.

"Bonner needs to be in there, and there was no one stepping down . . . I just put my own personal position second to the good of the province," Mr. Speare said.

"It was a tough thing to do," Mr. Bonner was defeated in his home riding of Vancouver Point Grey in the September election.

New Democratic Party leader Robert Strachan immediately announced that his party will contest the Cariboo seat.

It appears likely that Anglican minister Hartley Dent, of Forest Grove, who drew 2,530 votes to 3,830 ballots cast for Mr. Speare, will carry the NDP banner against the attorney-general.

Mr. Strachan said "carpet-bagger Bonner" was forced to run in Cariboo because of the reluctance of other Social Credit MLAs to resign.

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault expressed surprise that the byelection will be held in the rural riding, rather than in Vancouver or Victoria.

"I think this is an indication that there was serious concern about the possibility about an election result in this area where he's best known," Mr. Perrault said.

But the Liberal leader declined to say whether his party would contest the byelection. Liberal candidate Ronald Mackey of Quesnel picked up only 719 votes on Sept. 12.

In Ottawa, where Premier Bennett and the Attorney-General are attending federal-provincial fiscal discussions, the premier said:

"I am sure all British Columbians, no matter what party they belong to, would like to see the attorney-general back in the legislature helping democratic government."

Five Per Cent Gap Stalls Teachers' Salary Talks Here

Salary negotiations between teachers and officials of School District 23 (Kelowna) are stalled with a five per cent gap.

A. G. Pollard, chairman of the salary committee, Thursday night recommended to the school board a six per cent increase.

The teachers are now asking for an 11-per-cent increase. The salary committee, Mr. Pollard said, "is not much happier with an 11-per-cent increase" than with the 13 per cent first demanded by teachers.

The board's first offer was five per cent. After meetings with the teachers, the salary committee raised their offer to six per cent.

The teachers are now considering this but are still asking for 11 per cent.

If an agreement is not reached by Monday the matter will go to conciliation, Mr. Pollard said. If still no agreement is reached by Nov. 14, arbitration will start.

Last year's negotiations were settled by the two committees without conciliation. The teachers received a six per cent increase then.

De Gaulle Sees No Optimism For Peace

PARIS (CP) — President de Gaulle today told 1,000 reporters at a press conference that peace in Viet Nam at present is "impossible."

The president, who said France proposed "no sort of mediation" in Viet Nam because "it would lead to nothing," warned that "the Americans must recognize that no agreement is possible in Asia without China."

On bombings of North Viet Nam, he said: "We find it deplorable that a little people should be bombed by a big one."

De Gaulle said: "We have no peace plan. . . . It would lead to nothing."

He saw no military solution to the Viet Nam problem. Any solution must be based on American acceptance of "real, controlled" neutrality, a gradual American withdrawal from Viet Nam and U.S. recognition of the importance of China, the 75-year-old president told his 15th press conference.

Earlier, de Gaulle rejected accusations that French foreign policy means isolation and said: "Our means are limited. We must, of necessity, co-operate."

Jury Probes Baby's Death

GRIMSBY, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury recommended Thursday that baby carriage manufacturers should specify for parents the correct size of mattress to be used in them.

The jury ruled that three-month-old Douglas James Brisson suffocated accidentally July 14 while sleeping in his baby carriage.

The youngest's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Brisson, testified that the baby was found lying in a slight depression at the end of the carriage where the mattress did not fit properly.

Mrs. Brisson said she had borrowed the mattress which she described as a "standard size one."

Robert Wardle, an executive with the Heywood Wakefield Co. Orillia, manufacturers of the carriage which sells under the trade name Lloyd, said the baby's death was the first in the company's 45-year history.

GOVERNMENT CHECKED He said the carriages were examined both by government departments for health standards and by quality control inspectors for several national department stores to ensure their safety.

The company has never sold mattresses for them and considered them unnecessary with the design of the carriage. He conceded, however, a mattress would probably be more comfortable for a baby.

Coroner Dr. D. W. McLennan said he was surprised the mattresses were not sold with the carriages by the various carriage manufacturers.

'Secret Caucus' Held By Tories

OTTAWA (CP) — A Western Conservative member complained today that a "secret caucus meeting" of his party had been held, confined only to those who support Arthur Maloney's candidacy for presidency of the party.

Gerald W. Baldwin (Peace River) said the fate of a principle—whether or not a leader should be subject to reassessment, will be decided in the choice between Mr. Maloney and incumbent Dalton Camp.

Mr. Camp has been calling for reassessment of John Diefenbaker's leadership of the party at the Conservative convention here Nov. 14-18.

Mr. Maloney, a Toronto lawyer and former MP, announced Thursday that he will make a bid for Mr. Camp's job as president of the national association, apparently in a pro-Diefenbaker role.

Mr. Baldwin said in a statement the issue no longer is between Mr. Camp on one side and Mr. Diefenbaker and his supporters on the other.

It was a question of deep and fundamental principle: "Whether there is a divine right in any person to retain any elective office without some means of submitting in the usual democratic way, from time to time, to re-endorsement or rejection."

Leadership and ambition are qualities that must go hand in hand with restraint and responsiveness to public necessity, Mr. Baldwin said.

He felt that many Canadians and many of his colleagues agreed with him on this.

MANILA (CP) — President Johnson and Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos had a "less than cordial exchange" on the question of sending Filipino troops to South Viet Nam during the Manila summit conference, an informed source disclosed today.

Johnson, speaking at the closed-door session of the seven-nation conference, had criticized Philippine participation in Viet Nam, the source said, referring to the 2,000 Filipino civil action group as only twenty-hundredths of one per cent of the Philippine population of 32,000,000.

Meeting the U.S. president later, Marcos pointed out that the Philippines has a standing army of only 45,000 men, and that during the Huk (communist) insurrection here in 1949 the U.S. "did not spend one million U.S. dollars a day" to the Philippines, the source said, referring to the cost of the Philippine effort in South Viet Nam.

After the conference President Johnson, speaking in Corregidor, again referred to Filipino participation in the conflict.

Johnson then expressed concern for Viet Nam saying, "we have all agreed that a terrorist, Communist insurgency sponsored and buttressed by the Hanoi government shall not destroy the independence of Viet Nam."

He added: "The Philippine people, who were racked by a similar armed assault on their sovereignty by the Huk, will recognize the full dimensions of these problems and the nature of the response that must be mounted."

Informed sources believed that Johnson took up the subject again prior to his departure here Thursday, following his visit to Cam Ranh base in South Viet Nam. He spent the night as house guest of President Marcos.

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Many UN diplomats expressed doubt today that the world organization could carry out the General Assembly's decision to wrest South-West Africa from a defiant South African government.

The 121-nation assembly voted 114 to 2 Thursday night to end South Africa's old League of Nations mandate over the 320,000-square-mile territory on her northwest border and bring it under UN trusteeship.

The world body also voted the establishment of a special committee of 14 member states, to be designated by the assembly president, to recommend practical means by which the territory should be administered.

It called upon the South African government "forthwith to refrain and desist from any action, constitutional, administrative, political or otherwise, which will in any manner whatsoever alter or tend to alter the present international status of South-West Africa."

The historic decision, climaxing a running battle between the UN and South Africa going back to the start of the world organization, came through the adoption of a series of Latin American amendments to a basic resolution proposed by 54 African and Asian members.

Only South Africa and Portugal voted against the measure.

Liberal 'Plot To Destroy' Independence Of Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — The government ran head-on into an aroused opposition today when it tabled an agreement with Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. permitting construction of a line through the United States.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker insisted that the agreement be submitted to a parliamentary committee to make sure that it would not undermine the future development of northern and southwestern Ontario.

T. C. Douglas, NDP leader, said the government has no power to authorize the agreement without first submitting it to Parliament. His party would fight the measure every inch of the way.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the agreement is part and parcel of a Liberal policy of continentalism which would destroy the economic and political independence of Canada.

He cited in this regard the Canada - U.S. auto agreement and government policy on water resources.

Mr. Douglas contended that the agreement will place a 15-year moratorium on the industrial expansion of Northern Ontario.

He said the Trans-Canada line through Michigan will become the main line from Western to Eastern Canada while the Northern Ontario line became secondary.

After the Liberals' "humiliating debacle" of 1956, they should be given an opportunity to keep from falling into the same booby trap. The reference was to the Commons pipeline debate of that year when closure was used by the government.

Social Credit and Creditist spokesmen supported the government on the agreement.

Mr. Pepin said Trans-Canada will be liable under the agreement for forfeiture of at least $1,000,000 for each breach of its undertaking to move most of its gas for eastern Canadian markets by the all-Canadian route.

He tabled a contract between the company and the government, saying it binds the company to live up to commitments it made to obtain government support for its plan to build a second line from Western Canada through the United States.

The government originally had rejected Trans-Canada's application to the national energy board for a licence to export Western Canadian gas from Manitoba to the U.S. and bring it back into Canada at Sault Ste. Marie and Sarnia to serve eastern markets, selling some to U.S. consumers along the way.

The government said there was a danger that the new proposed line south of the Great Lakes, which would be owned by Trans-Canada and American Natural Gas Co., would become Trans-Canada's main line.

Trans-Canada then agreed to maintain movements of more than half its gas through the present Northern Ontario line, and to increase this to 65 per cent, winning the northern line as markets develop. Trans-Canada would also put its shares in the southern line into a trust to guarantee continued Canadian ownership.

The government then agreed to grant the requested licences.

WILL MAKE REVIEW Mr. Pepin said that in addition to being liable to $1,000,000 for each infringement of the contract, Trans-Canada's observance of the conditions will be reviewed each time the company goes before the national energy board.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government's handling of the Trans-Canada application has been kaleidoscopic. Canada's interests were sacrificed under the U.S. - Canada automobile free trade agreement, and the government had switched its position on possible exports of water to the U.S.

The new contract, he said, should be examined to determine whether it undermines future industrial development in northern and southwestern Ontario, areas which will require increasing energy supplies. (Continued from Page 2) See: PIPELINE

Aussie Opposition Leader Claims Ky Murdered Diem

CANBERRA, Australia (CP) — Opposition Leader Arthur Calwell today was ordered to withdraw a statement made in Parliament charging South Viet Nam's premier, Nguyen Cao Ky, with murdering former premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

Speaking in the House of Representatives here, the Labor party leader quoted former U.S. state secretary John Foster Dulles as saying in 1955 that Diem was a true patriot, dedicated to independence and the enjoyment of the people of political and religious freedom.

"But Premier Diem was murdered by Marshal Ky — the friend of the prime minister (Harold Holt)," Calwell said.

Shouting over jeers, Calwell added: "Yes, he was murdered by Ky. He murdered Diem and his brother."

Holt jumped to his feet and said there was a standing order which prevented members of Parliament from speaking in a disparaging way about leaders of other nations.

The Speaker of the house, Sir John McLeary, ruled the point valid and ordered Calwell to withdraw the remark.

Premier Ky earlier had set Parliament in uproar with the widely-reported remark that he would never "tolerate" the Viet Cong in any government or negotiate with them.

Holt refused to comment on the Ky statement until it was available in the full diplomatic text.

Roberts Quits In Ontario

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Roberts of Ontario today announced the resignation of Lands and Forests Minister Kelso Roberts from the cabinet.

The premier said in a statement the 68-year-old former attorney general and minister of the Ontario legislature for more than 20 years had tendered his resignation and that "its acceptance will be arranged shortly."

Mr. Roberts said the agreement is part and parcel of a Liberal policy of continentalism which would destroy the economic and political independence of Canada.

He cited in this regard the Canada - U.S. auto agreement and government policy on water resources.

Mr. Douglas contended that the agreement will place a 15-year moratorium on the industrial expansion of Northern Ontario.

Missile Test By China Sparks Wild Rejoicing

PEKING (Reuters) — Huge columns of demonstrators today marched through Peking with red banners, streamers and portraits of Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung to celebrate China's first guided missile nuclear test.

Soon after the early morning announcement of the test, Peking streets began to echo with the sound of drum beats and clashing cymbals and gongs. Jubilant Communist officials handed out special editions of the People's Daily, printed entirely in red, with headlines proclaiming "successful explosion of first guided missile nuclear weapon is a great victory for thought of Mao Tse-tung and a splendid success for the great proletarian cultural revolution."

The Peking communique gave no details about the strength or type of the missile, how far it flew or the composition of its warhead.

Contrary to announcements at the site of China's three previous nuclear tests, it did not state what time Thursday's explosion took place or what region of China was used.

The communique said China was developing nuclear weapons to oppose nuclear monopoly and blackmail by the U.S. and Russia "acting in collusion."

Most of the demonstrators converged on offices of the Communist party central committee and streets in the area were soon blocked by dense crowds.

They shouted slogans and quotations from Mao's writings while truckloads of uniformed troops, also singing and shouting, drove with flags and Mao portraits up and down the capital's broad main boulevard.

Observers here believed the test announcement will give a big boost to the prestige of defence minister Lin Biao and his supporters in the Communist party leadership as well as to the army. The communique said complete success of the test was ensured "by the Chinese Peoples' Liberation Army and China's scientists and technicians."

Not only was the army thus placed ahead of the scientists, but both were stated to be in the first place "enthusiastically responding to the call of Lin Piao" and in the second place "holding high the great red banner of Mao Tse-tung's thought," studying and applying his works—though Lin Piao's call itself dealt with the need for more study of Mao's writings.

Bennett Seeks Ottawa Aid Of $30 Million For Dams

Premier Bennett's request for $30,000,000 from Ottawa for Columbia River dams, plus other aid to British Columbia, was tabled in the Commons Thursday by Finance Minister Sharp.

The federal government has not yet made public any decision on the requests made last month. Mr. Bennett said the $30,000,000 was to cover the increased cost of the dams resulting from imposition of an 11-per-cent sales tax by the federal government on building materials.

After signing the agreement for the Columbia development, his letter also asked for $19,747,500 in construction subsidies for the provincially-owned Pacific Great Eastern railway and for "appropriate" sharing by Ottawa in construction of the Second Narrows Bridge at Vancouver.

Dalton Camp, president of the Progressive Conservative party, said Thursday in Toronto he welcomes lawyer Arthur Maloney as a rival. "This will give the party a chance to express itself on the two points of view," Mr. Camp said.

John Squires, recording secretary of the Alberni local of the International Woodworkers of America, said Thursday loggers made jobless by the forest industry crisis should be re-employed in a massive program of public works.

The first scandal of Mayor John V. Lindsay's 10-month-old administration in New York, broke Thursday with the firing of a $17,500-a-year sanitation department official. The dismissal of Vincent Starace, first deputy sanitation commissioner, came shortly before the city's investigation commissioner charged that pay-offs of up to $1,000 each were made to 30 men to get sanitation department promotions. A department foreman also was fired and another foreman resigned.

The will of Elizabeth Arden showed Thursday the international beauty expert had parlayed a keen business ability and a $600 investment in cosmetics into a fortune estimated at between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000. In her will filed for probate in New York, the Woodbridge, Ont., native left $1,500,000 to be distributed among employees with more than 10 years service in London, Paris, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Boston, Washington and Los Angeles.

Prime Minister Wilson said Thursday his Labor government's belt-tightening measures will be maintained until Britain's foreign trade is out of the red. He told the Commons the austerity policy would not be eased to halt spreading unemployment.

Creditist Leader Real Caouette and Gilles Gregoire (Ind.-Lapointe) charged in the Commons Thursday night that the Canada Labor Relations Board discriminates against Quebec unions.

TODAY'S STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials continued their climb on the Toronto stock exchange for the sixth consecutive day today in moderate morning trading.

They paced the rise with a gain of 3/4 to 89. Imperial Oil was up 1/2 to 54 1/2, following its high bidding in a sale of oil leases in Alberta earlier this week.

Bell Telephone, which reported nine-month earnings up this year, rose 3/4 to 46 1/2.

The industrial index was up 32 to 145.94. Volume totalled 805,000 shares by 11 a.m., compared with 1,009,000 at the same time Thursday.

Western oils continued their decline, off .30 on index to 111.02. Banff was off 1/4 to 12 1/2, Canadian Superior 3/4 to 24 1/2 and Dome 1/4 to 25 1/2.

Field Narrows To One Group In Commons Prices Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—The parliamentary probe into high food costs has narrowed the field to one class of businessmen, the food processors and manufacturers. Everyone else has pleaded not guilty.

Agriculture department witnesses testified farmers are getting a smaller share of the consumer dollar now than they have any time in the recent past.

The corporate-owned chain supermarkets testified their profit margins have not increased. Wholesalers supplying other supermarkets and grocery stores of all sizes testified they are operating on quick turn over and narrow profit margins.

This leaves the food processors and manufacturers to defend themselves. Witnesses for the H. J. Heinz Co. and Gerber's baby foods testify next week.

"PRICE FACTOR LOW"

Aime Boisvert of Couvrette and Provost Ltd., Montreal-based wholesale distributor, said Thursday food prices rank low on the scale of values that determines where a housewife will do her shopping.

According to repeated surveys, the housewife looks for store cleanliness and freshness of perishable products first, then for a wide variety of goods offered, convenience and comfort, and courtesy and personal attention.

Mr. Boisvert said, however, that at present—while housewives are participating in supermarket boycotts and have otherwise aroused heightened interest in prices—the value factor may have moved up the scale to third place.

He said housewives may need education in shopping for good value. They should judge the value of a package of food not on price alone, but on price-per-serving, or price-per-ounce. Under questioning, he said this is a tangled mathematical process and steps should be taken to make it easier.

One step that may emerge from the committee hearings would be to limit the variety of packaged foods. If standard sizes are adopted by the food industry, or imposed on the industry by law, it would be easier for shoppers to judge value against price.

Governor General Listens, And Has Check At Hospital

OTTAWA (CP) — Via telephone, Governor-General Vanier heard himself address the banquet Thursday night opening the first annual meeting of the Vanier Institute of the Family at Government House.

The Governor-General, suffering from influenza went by taxi to Civic Hospital for a check-up Thursday afternoon.

His address to the banquet was tape-recorded before he left. Government House electricians spliced telephone lines into the banquet sound equipment so the Governor-General could hear speeches by Bishop Ernest Reed of Ottawa, Institute President Dr. Wilder Kenfield of Montreal, and his own address.

Madame Vanier attended the dinner opening the two-day meeting.

The Governor-General, speaking in English, spoke of the "new uncertainty and moral confusion of our young people" and stressed the importance of religion in building strong family bonds.

He said the increase in working mothers has been an unsettling influence on the home, which may become "less a home than a boarding house." Family relationships should be based on "frankness and honesty... the best and firmest bridge between the generations."

"It is my prayer that the great role of the institute will be... to reassure the parents of our nation's children that their inspiration and direction are still not only valid but essential."

Dr. Penfield said that in a time when behaviour codes were being questioned, the Vanier institute would hold "a key by which to enter the home, the key of education."

"Man the teachable, can be trained for good or evil. This is what mothers and fathers have always done for children."

Another important part of the institute's work would be "the constructive work of leisure and productive pastimes in the home."

Huge Memorial May Rise Over Aberfan Vale Of Tears

LONDON (CP) — A giant lasting memorial of this immense loss. There still is no final decision how the contributions should be used. Among suggestions which the Welsh office has heard: A giant memorial at Aberfan, scholarships and other assistance for the community's children, a new community hall and new school, financial aid for the impoverished, new recreational facilities and housing and perhaps aid for those who want to leave the valley.

As messages of sympathy pour in from many parts of the world, a disaster fund, established by Alderman Stanley Davies, mayor of Merthyr Tydfil which adjoins Aberfan, is rising toward £100,000 ($300,000). Officials estimate it may swell to double or triple that figure.

"The money will be poor compensation for grieving parents," said an official of the Welsh office. "But it may help the surviving children and provide a lasting memorial of this immense loss."

"The money will be poor compensation for grieving parents," said an official of the Welsh office. "But it may help the surviving children and provide a lasting memorial of this immense loss."

There still is no final decision how the contributions should be used. Among suggestions which the Welsh office has heard: A giant memorial at Aberfan, scholarships and other assistance for the community's children, a new community hall and new school, financial aid for the impoverished, new recreational facilities and housing and perhaps aid for those who want to leave the valley.

As messages of sympathy pour in from many parts of the world, a disaster fund, established by Alderman Stanley Davies, mayor of Merthyr Tydfil which adjoins Aberfan, is rising toward £100,000 ($300,000). Officials estimate it may swell to double or triple that figure.

PIPELINE ROW RAGES

(Continued from Page 1) Mr. Douglas said he is more convinced than ever that the government's decision to accept Trans-Canada's new proposals, after rejecting the original ones, is a complete and unjustifiable reversal of policy.

He said the agreement states that 50 per cent of the gas for Eastern Canada will move through the Northern Ontario section of the line. This was not 50 per cent of total volume.

The new line through the U.S. would be 36 inches. The Ontario line was 30 inches. In terms of volume, 4 per cent more gas would move through the U.S. than through the Ontario line.

It was misleading and specious for the government to say the 30-inch line would be the main line.

Mr. Pepin interjected that more volume would go to Northern Ontario.

Mr. Douglas said the new agreement did not remove Prime Minister Pearson's original objection that the main gas lines must be constructed in Canada.

Mr. Douglas said section 6A of the 1956 pipeline act says that construction of lines must be approved by Parliament.

The government had no power to authorize the agreement without taking it before Parliament.

"We will fight on this issue," Mr. Douglas declared. "We insist that the agreement be submitted to Parliament... Withdraw this order and submit it to Parliament."

Mr. Douglas said he can only conclude the government has backed a tracked under pressure and that he would like to know the source of this pressure.

WANTS COMMONS STUDY Later Mr. Douglas asked again that the agreement be submitted to Parliament. Mr. Pepin replied that as he understood it, the act establishing Trans-Canada Pipe Lines did not require such a move.

He said the act required that the main line or lines should be in Canada — and the government was ensuring this by insisting that the Canadian line be twinned, starting in 1970.

You would impose anything on the company that is not reasonable would you?" he asked Mr. Douglas.

The minister also assured Davie Fulton (PC — Kamloops) that officials of the national energy board and he himself would be available for committee questioning on the plan.

SOCIAL CREDIT FAVORS Social Credit Leader Thompson applauded the gas agreement as "sound economics" and said the arguments by Mr. Douglas were not logical.

Canada's huge reserves of gas were more than enough to meet domestic needs in the foreseeable future and gas exports to the U.S. would be a big help in reducing the present trade imbalance with the U.S.

The shorter route combined with a larger line to carry export gas at the same time would provide cheaper gas to Eastern Canada than a second Canadian pipeline.

He said the contract guaranteed ample gas for Northern and northwestern Ontario. Twinning of the present Canadian line would start by 1970 and be built as gas demand required.

The national energy board has accepted the first submission, but the government had rejected it and this action had resulted in a much better agreement not only for Eastern Canada but also for Alberta.

Creditist Leader Real Caouette also supported the agreement. He said the only criteria for judging the deal was whether Canada had enough gas reserves to justify exports and this seemed to be the case.

While there should be discussion of the agreement, he saw no reason for the haggling as long as Canadian demand was fulfilled.

Greene In Paris For Farm Meet

OTTAWA (CP) — Agricultural Minister J. J. Greene flew to Paris Wednesday to attend a ministerial meeting of the organization for Economic Co-operation and Development. He was accompanied by his deputy minister, S. B. Williams.

WILL REPRESENT CANADA OTTAWA (CP)—Henri Gourdeau, 45, a native of Quebec City who won the DFC as a bomber pilot during the Second World War, has been appointed Canadian representative on the council of the International Civil Aviation Organization. It was announced Wednesday. He replaces Rudolph Duder of Montreal.

BROWNIES, GUIDES, RANGER REWARDED

Thursday was a big day for guides, brownies and sea rangers. Mrs. Harry Chaplin, division commissioner for East Kelowna, South Kelowna and Okanagan Mission, presented Wendy Morgan with her all-around cord, the second highest award in girl guides. Wendy, 14, was enrolled in sea rangers, the senior branch of guiding. The same night, five brownies from the first and second Okanagan Mission brownie packs were accepted into the First Mission Guide Company. Eight brownies received golden bars recognizing their work in the pack and 14 proficiency badges were presented to guides.

Students' Parents Get Transport Aid

Officials of School District 23 (Kelowna) decided Thursday night to grant transportation allowances to residents of the Casa Loma subdivision who are eligible to receive them.

School Trustees Problem Solved Through New Order

The school district has finally solved the problem of its tardy "Viet Nam buses". School trustees Thursday night decided to cancel their order and obtain other buses. The buses were supposed to be delivered Aug. 20 but didn't arrive. The delay was supposedly caused by a shortage of front axles, commandeered for the Viet Nam war. J. N. Maddock, chairman of the transportation company, told school trustees the company, in its latest move, had once more altered the promised delivery date to Nov. 14 offering them at the "inflated" price of $19,000, which was $6,000 more per bus than the first company charged.

A delegation of parents from the subdivision attended a school board meeting Oct. 4 requesting a bus service be provided between the subdivision and Kelowna schools. The board at that time said they could not provide a bus to the subdivision. A bus does pass within 1.6 miles of Casa Loma but Frank Orme, superintendent, said it could not cope with 25 extra passengers. The decision to pay the allowance was made on this basis. The allowance is 10 cents per mile or $1 per day per student whichever is the least. Those eligible to ask for the allowance must live more than three miles from the nearest school. The distance from the cross-roads in the subdivision to the Kelowna Secondary School is about 3.5 miles. Application forms are available at the school board office for those parents wishing to apply for the transportation allowance. Mr. Orme told the board of school trustees the district does not "have a bus to spare" for the Casa Loma subdivision. The transportation allowance will be paid only until a bus is available but neither John Maddock, chairman of the transportation committee, nor Mr. Orme would say when that will be. "There is little possibility of having a bus before the end of the school year," Mr. Orme said.

MUSICALLY SPEAKING

With BETHEL STEELE

Thursday evening Kelowna Little Theatre presented the mystery "Speaking of Murder" to an opening night audience, which, although small, must be labelled enthusiastic but was no doubt lost to the cast within the caverns of the Community Theatre.

What a pity, because without a doubt this is the best integrated production the Little Theatre group has given us in recent years.

My main reason for this conclusion is that there are no glaring extremes in casting. The cast as a whole is more or less even as to projection.

Then too, the style within the form... mystery and plot... is consistent throughout... that is no extremes of comedy, farce, etc., although why this should be a legitimate criticism is beyond comprehension since life itself is a hodge-podge of people of different conceptions and reactions to what takes place in every-day experience.

There are a few glaring technical faults which, because of the high standard of production, provide me with the only means of criticism. Lighting is weak... there are shadows where there should be unadorned light... what about the little back stage? The children's onstage approach starts a bit too late and in the case of Janie a bit exaggerated. The vault door is beautifully massive but without catches. Mitchell sits back relaxed with his knees crossed while taking notes when he should be in a state of tension in order that he can better evaluate his surroundings and what is being said by him. Once or twice Ricky dropped his voice as did Connie.

On the opposite side of the coin... we were given one of the finest and most attractive stage settings we have had for a long time. I spent a great deal of time trying to decide what were real or painted books or if there was any difference. The white walls gave clarity to the setting and a definite background for the color contrast of decor and costume which were good in their delineation. The furniture was polished to within an inch of perfection... something far too often ignored. The whole forward stage was used giving spaciousness to the room and sweep to the actors' movements.

The early pace was leisurely... and should not be called slow since a drunk can never be hurried. Dilys Shotton was magnificent and Robina Bennett as Annabelle, the mystery protagonist always in control of her scenes. She gave a well thought out interpretation of the insanely jealous neurotic passed over for another woman. Mrs. Bennett has a fine articulate command of language but perhaps more attention to voice production might overcome those few extremes of expression now inherent in her speech. She looked her character and her name was exceptional.

Beverly Sisset had encompassed her character to better effect once rehearsal but, as might all the others with the exception of Mrs. Shotton, should consider more emphasis on voice production and name... the voice reveals character and the ready gives it further emphasis.

One might say from the reaction of the audience that Mrs. Chris Cleaver was the star of the evening. We hope he can leave his electronics long enough to further develop this ethereal side of his genius. Congratulations Chris... he no longer has to emphasize extremes of emotion. He looks his character and with further good direction should become one of our more important actors.

Space does not allow formal recognition of the competent behind the stage facemasks... except that Mary Irwin deserves a banquet for her fine direction and we hope she will give us more... perhaps some serious theatre... since the "Theatre" movement is not just to entertain but to use as a thinking so we may experiment and enlarge that window on the world.

Cloudy...

Sunny skies Thursday diminished to clouds overnight and the dull weather is expected to last into the weekend. The sunshine boosted temperatures to 57 in Kelowna, only five degrees cooler than the highest temperature in the nation at Toronto.

However, with the clear skies came the coldest temperature of the season overnight when temperatures dipped below freezing in Kelowna for the first time.

Weathermen forecast only a partial clearing tonight with clouds again covering the Valley Saturday and the possibility of showers during the afternoon.

A CORRECTION
The letter to the Kelowna city council Monday night urging repairs to Burchill Rd. was written by the board of trustees of School District 23 (Kelowna), not by board secretary-manager Fred Macklin. As a matter of routine Mr. Macklin signs most school board letters, but the letter considered by the council Monday came from the board as a group and not from Mr. Macklin as an individual.

PENTICTON MAKES MOVE

Sign Control Bylaw Feelings Mixed

Mixed reactions have been voiced by Kelowna people on a bylaw to outlaw over-hanging neon and electric signs, recently given third reading by the Penticton city council.

"I think they are making a mistake," said Basil Meikle, who presented the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce brief on facia signs to the city council here. The chamber is against a bylaw making facia signs mandatory.

"Bylaws should protect the rights of individuals not take them away," Mr. Meikle said, "feelings on this topic are mixed. I don't think the city should legislate."

Mr. Meikle said he would be interested to know how much effort was spent by the city council in Penticton trying to find out the feelings of the people, before legislating. "Was their chamber involved?" he wondered. "I don't think facia signs are all that important when it comes to improving the downtown area, paint will do more. If they were that important, every merchant would want one," Mr. Meikle said.

UNITED APPEAL $54 POORER AS THIEF HITS LOW LEVEL

A thief in the Rutland area has sunk to a low level in the theft of $54 from the United Appeal. Alex Jussasovich, Rutland, told police at 2 p.m. Thursday, the money was taken from his truck while it was parked in front of his store. The money was contained in a brown envelope and had been handed to him by one of the collection volunteers. The envelope was later found in a field—empty.

SCHOOL BOARD BRIEFS

Vernon's College Interest Acknowledged By Buckland

A new "Build-the-College" committee, recently formed in Vernon, was discussed briefly by the school board. Charles Buckland, school board representative on the Regional College Council, noted a college seminar will be held in Vernon tonight. "I'm certainly glad some constructive thought is coming from Vernon," said Mr. Buckland.

The school board will study a request from the principals' association for the board to pay costs for buses used for extracurricular activities. Schools now must pay some of the costs. R. E. McFadden, principal of the Rutland Secondary School, pointed out to board members most schools already pay uniform and equipment costs. The schools fine sports programs should not have to be curtailed by lack of money, he said.

Cecil Sladen, chairman of the adult education committee, reported 1,227 people are taking 54 non-academic courses this year. In addition, 316 people are taking eight academic courses, which is "a better attendance than last year," Mr. Sladen said.

1,000 Lions Visiting City

More than 1,000 Lions club members from British Columbia and the U.S. are amassing in Kelowna this weekend at an annual conference and workshop.

The Lions represent multiple district 19 which encompasses B.C., Washington and northern Idaho and boasts 320 clubs with a total membership of 12,500.

District secretary Gordon Smith of Bellingham, Wash., said the two-day event to be held in the Memorial Arena and the Community Theatre is primarily an "educational meeting for the benefit of Lions club members."

He said a variety of international Lions projects will be outlined and discussed and the possibility of a giant special project for the district will be proposed.

Among those speaking at the conference will be New Westminster radio station manager Bill Hughes recently returned from an assignment in Sweden.

Mr. Smith said the conference is held annually, essentially to get new presidents and secretaries "off on the right foot."

Tories Host Pugh Social

Progressive Conservatives will meet with MP David Pugh tonight for a social get-together.

The Kelowna and District Progressive Conservative Association is holding a reception for Mr. Pugh at the Aquatic at 5:30 p.m.

The reception, a by-invitation affair, is being held in appreciation for the election work done by Conservative workers, B. W. Trussell, an association member, said today.

Mr. Pugh is not expected to speak during the evening.

Industry Minister Reviews Valley Development Progress

Diversification of economic activity in the Okanagan was endorsed by Industry Minister Drury in Penticton Thursday night.

The best opportunities for growth and expansion of incomes and employment in the Canadian and Valley economies lie in the industrial sector—in secondary manufacturing and processing, the minister told members of the Okanagan Regional Industrial Development Association.

Mr. Drury complimented the progress already made in the Okanagan. He credited the development here to local interests, the area development program and to the Canadian-U.S. automotive agreement.

The industry minister was in the Okanagan on an inspection tour of industries, many of which were established or expanded under the area development program administered by Mr. Drury.

He arrived in Kelowna Wednesday, toured the area and officiated Thursday at a ceremony at the White Truck Manufacturing Ltd. (Kelowna). He also visited industries in Vernon and Penticton.

Mr. Drury commended the industrial development he had seen on his tour. The influence of Area Development Incentives Act grants was "considerable" in encouraging development here, he said.

He said 33 new enterprises have begun to build or plan new facilities since the area was designated in mid-1965. These

Special Mention For Trucks

White Truck Manufacturing Ltd. (Kelowna) came in for some special mention. Mr. Drury said it will be one of the most modern truck assembly plants in North America, incorporating the "most modern features of the company's other factories."

The Canadian-U.S. automotive agreement and the development program, with the encouragement and promotion of local industries, coincided to encourage the establishment of the plant in the Valley, he said. "Factories must have access to larger markets than our domestic demand provides," the minister said. "To provide the opportunities, the government has negotiated an automotive agreement which permits manufacturers of automobiles on both sides of the border to import new cars and original automotive equipment, parts and materials duty free under certain conditions."

The agreement, he said, will ensure that Canadian industry has the opportunity to develop "the competitive strength" necessary to thrive in a continental market.

Mr. Drury said that while Valley economic roots are in the primary industries, there are "limitations" on further growth in these areas.

The shortage of land is limiting agriculture and recent developments in the forest industry make it difficult for smaller operators to expand.

Future Valley growth lies in new industrial opportunities. The importance of industry has two fundamental aspects—the consumer demand for goods which contribute to the high standard of living and the large number of people employed by manufacturing concerns, he said.

The Okanagan is moving toward diversification and it is "desirable" that it should, he said. As the industrial base grows and becomes more diversified, this "will provide powerful new attractions to other industries."

Mr. Drury also singled out the wine industry for mention. He claimed the wine-making industry for the "industrial sector" of the economy. He said it

C. M. DRURY backs program concerns "represent investment of about $9,500,000 and will provide about 800 new job opportunities plus other jobs in ancillary industries."

The industries "represent a new development in dimension in the development of the Okanagan," he said.

Mr. Drury also mentioned the tourist industry. The development of the tourist industry promises to provide more immediate gains in employment and income than developments in the manufacturing area in many designated areas, the minister said.

The minister hinted the area development program may be extended to provide some assistance to tourism in designated areas.

PAST HALFWAY

The Kelowna and District United Appeal has moved past the halfway mark in its objective this year of $52,000. A total of $26,780 had been collected up to this morning, well above the total for the same period last year.

However, with an increased area this year stretching from Winfield to Peachland and the Red Cross participating for the first time, this year's objective represents a big increase over the $36,000 sought as last year's objective.

Some areas such as Rutland are behind in collection and more volunteers are required. Meanwhile, a total of $450 was collected through the International Woodwork of America from 150 employees at S. and K. Ltd., Plywood Division.

Creeping Republicanism; Is It Present Here?

Surprisingly this newspaper finds itself in agreement with Mr. Diefenbaker. We have already expressed our feelings about the removal of the Canadian coat of arms from the mail boxes and mail bags. In Parliament the other day Mr. Diefenbaker labelled this as another step in the Liberals' plot to make this country a republic.

In this, perhaps, he was going a bit too far, but when he speaks of "creeping republicanism", we must agree. We do not think Prime Minister Pearson is engaged in any plot to do away with the monarchy in this country, yet there have been many instances suggesting that members of his government are attempting to do just that.

Canadians generally — English-speaking Canadians that is—are of the opinion that these things are just another sop—"sellout" is the term commonly used to the French-speaking Canadians. If this is so, the program is backfiring as more and more people are openly expressing their resentment. There is a hardening of opinion and it is against the people of Quebec and such moves as the current one in the post office only serves to further stiffen the resentment.

The obvious tendency of the Pearson government to introduce distinctively Canadian symbols into our official life may or may not be an indication of a move toward republicanism. It is no secret that the young Liberals of Quebec, for one, openly advocate a republican form of government in this country. And there are others. But, we believe, these people are very few.

It is difficult to understand why there are even a few. These republican advocates have had the good fortune to live under a form of government unique in the long history of the world. That form of government guarantees individual citizens a degree of liberty, personal, religious and political, never before enjoyed anywhere at any time. This constitutional monarchy form of government has made possible a continuity of government, of national institutions and a freedom from the tyranny of one-man rule which is without parallel in the world's political history.

Constitutional monarchy is a system of delicate checks and balances, of division of responsibilities and powers, evolved over centuries of development. It was a gift to this country from Britain, and was made possible by the unbroken continuity of a single political institution, a monarchic form of government spanning a thousand years of evolution.

It is the particular strength of this form of government that it allows the most radical changes in government, as represented by the elected parliaments of the people, while at the same time retaining a continuity of the national institutions which have proven themselves over long centuries as the established bulwarks of justice and liberty: a titular head of state, and the rule of law administered by free and unfettered courts, both of which are maintained above and beyond the tumult of partisan politics.

Republicans can produce a Peron, a Stalin, or a Nasser; a Sukarno, a Mussolini, a Hitler, a Mao. It is the peculiar blessing of our constitutional monarchy, allied to parliamentary government, that it renders such monsters impossible here.

Becoming Irritated

Like a good many other people west of the Great Divide — the Ottawa River and south of Chaleur Bay, we are becoming a bit irritated and the irritation grows.

We are becoming a little tired of receiving mail written in French.

We are becoming a little tired of receiving mail in both French and English—with the French always first.

We are more than a bit tired of buying groceries with two languages on the package.

We are becoming a bit tired of bilingual signs on federal buildings with French given pride of place. The last such incident was a new federal building in Port Hope, Ontario. It was a sign of the mass growing irritation that these couple of French words led to such an irrational act as the defacement of the sign by vandals.

Then, too, the Canadian coat of arms is being removed from mail trucks and post boxes. The symbol has been used for nearly a century and people have become accustomed to it. Sincere sounding arguments about standardization and uniformity only serve to further anger people who feel the chief reason for the removal is to efface another symbol of monarchy at the behest of French-Canada.

It is appreciated that Canada, roughly, is made up of one-third French-Canadians, one-third English-Canadians and one-third of people of other ethnic roots. Yet we are being constantly told that the first third as exemplified by its political power base, Quebec, is not a third like the others. It is special, distinctive, and demands a sort of separate but equal role in Confederation that is neither asked for nor given to the rest.

For the past several years nine provinces have had it dinned into them that the tenth, Quebec, is the embodiment of French culture in North America and constitutes a French nation which chooses to ally itself with a larger English nation. And we are becoming tired of it all.

It all leads up to a series of pinpricks, none very large in itself, affecting the rest of the country and are leading to a growing sense of outrage.

In a different context none of these pinpricks would matter very much and they might be accepted without irritation. For instance the current coat of arms affair in the post office. Under different circumstances people might give up the symbol, but they are not at all pleased to do it at the urging of a distant province which increasingly sets itself up as a different and almost foreign entity.

We, perhaps erroneously, were under the impression that Quebec belongs to Canada. But Quebec says that Quebec belongs to Quebec. And Ottawa would seem to agree with this. No wonder people in the Maritimes, Ontario and particularly in the West are getting more and more confused—and more angry—all the time.

Serious Nosebleeds Can Be Cured

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner:

I frequently get serious nosebleeds. They come on suddenly and last a while. I just don't want them to occur while I am out in public, but they happen at any time of day and also in bed at night, although I do not even touch my nose. What can I do?—J.M.

The nose usually bleeds from an area on the septum near the nostrils. For this there are two principle reasons. First, the blood vessels are close to the surface and in some individuals may be more fragile than in others.

Second, an ulcer may have formed—it needn't be large or painful, yet under the circumstances it can cause repeated bleeding. A clot forms, then breaks loose and you have another nosebleed. A new clot forms, and it's the same story over again.

First aid is pressure on the nose, or better yet, pack cotton into the nostril, taking care to leave some sticking out, so it can be removed when necessary.

Sit with your head tilted a bit forward—I don't mean with it down at your knees. Don't lie down, because then the blood can run into your throat, and you have no way of knowing when the bleeding has stopped. Don't remove the packing too soon, as the clot, just being formed, may be dislodged.

For a more permanent answer which is what you want, of course, have a physician inspect the inside of your nostrils to learn whether you have this bleeding from just one or both sides.

An ulcer can be cauterized, which seals the place from which you have the bleeding. If there is no ulcer, but the point at which the bleeding occurs can be identified, cauterizing that area can also ward off future bleeding. Bleeding can occur higher in the nostrils and the spot may not be accessible by the methods mentioned. In such an instance, special packing by a physician is essential.

Dear Dr. Molner: Are the following statements true?

1—A woman ovulates once during her cycle and that always occurs 14 days before the onset of her next period.

2—There are only five days between periods when a woman can conceive, since the male sperm lives for 72 hours after intercourse, and the egg may live 48 hours after ovulation.

Thank you.—MRS. A.L.S.

Both these statements are approximately true, meaning that this is the USUAL situation, but there can be variations in everything you have said. If you accept them as approximations, all right, but if you expect them to hold true and stick to such an inflexible schedule as your statement indicates, at times you will be wrong.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a 23-year-old wife and mother. I find that having two children surely takes inches off the bustline. Is it all right for me to order one of these creams to enlarge the bust? Could it affect my health?—MRS. R.D.S.

Many women have the opposite experience. After they have had babies the bust sometimes develops. In many others, there is no difference. Loss of weight—the hard work of caring for babies, and not sufficient attention on your own nutrition—is usually the real reason if the bust declines. And I have never seen any sign that the various advertised "bust developer" creams do any good.

MEET AT LAST

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—A 20-year estrangement between Belgium's ex-king Leopold and his younger brother and former regent, Prince Charles, has ended in reconciliation, according to reports here Wednesday. The weekly magazine Pourquoi Pas? and the gossip newspaper Pan said the two men met in France last month for the first time since the end of the Second World War.

BIBLE BRIEF

"For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it."—Luke 9:24.

There is no gift like the gift of yourself. The only thing that we save is what we give away. Live yourself in the work of Christ here and you will find yourself in Heaven.

Personally Speaking

By VEN. D. S. CATCHPOLE, B.A., D.D.

COLOR IT—PURPLE?

I am being attacked, I tell you!

I am being sniped at and I am being crowded! Sanctions are being used against me and although this invasion of my private wishes has but started I can see that the day is coming when I shall have to make a decision: Shall it be color or shall it be black and white?

There are other areas where pressure is brought to bear but not until now has that pressure been upon me personally. In England I saw what must have happened when a woman went into one of those mysterious places where women (and some men, they say) go and said: "Color it purple!" Believe it or not, I saw a woman with purple hair.

I understand that one can go into these places and come out almost any shade you like. I mean, nothing is certain any more. It used to be that one described a man as having iron-grey hair (whatever that meant) but today while this might be true in the morning it is quite untrue in the evening. Your brunette of yesterday is your blonde of today and all because blondes have more fun—or is it the other way round?

When someone said to me, in England: "Will you have it black or white?" I immediately thought I was likely to have a dye job on my (then) mouse-colored hair. Actually, they were enquiring about coffee, so I was quite safe. I saw quite amazing things in England but we won't go into that now.

What concerns me at the moment is the impending danger. I am being threatened with incurring a bill of some $600 to $1,000. I am being enticed by announcers who, with dripping lips, tell me that I am going to be able to see a bunch of fantastic idiots (who are supposed to live in Beverley Hills) in "living color." I simply can't wait to see that repulsive bag of bones in a checked apron of red and blue!

It had always looked normally black and white. Immediately, there rises in me an almost (thank God) irresistible urge to tear madly down to Sparks and Blitzen and go into debt for ever more just to see grandma dunk herself in a shimmering green pond. I suppose this is the sort of thing she does, although I never actually include these morons in my viewing.

Alas! This is not the whole story. No sooner had Rich Rusardson announced that I could watch Hoss (blooming with color in his fat little cheeks) leap up on his nag with the reinforced spine than Sparks and Blitzen announced also that they were selling Black and Whites at half price.

Now, my set is getting on to 10 years old. Do you know what? When I want to get a replacement or extensive repairs I know that I shall be met with a stare and faint odor of hostility and the comment: "Sorry, bud, we don't carry them out-of-date machines any more but you might try Scotty's Antiques down the street. Of course, if you should be interested in Color TV, well, now look at this nice little job. Just $1,749.99 with a radio and record-player thrown in for good measure.

Just a dollar down and a dollar a week. You can arrange to pay the balance when you die by making provision in your will. How about it, bud? Or would you rather be done in by the wily Scot and then have only a black and white horror after all?"

Then again, I am made to feel inferior. Whenever I turn on my television set (which is less and less often) I hear something like this: "If you are fortunate enough to have a color TV you can watch 'Get Smart' in the hues of the rainbow!" Now who would want to watch the stupid clut in the first place?—but that is not the point. The inference is that I am not fortunate.

I am unfortunate. I am from a depressed area. I am underprivileged. In fact I am probably sub-normal. Only the top-flight boys have color TV unless it be those who are on the way to the bankruptcy court. Thus, as you can readily see, I shall shortly be lying on Dr. McWhere-Am-I's couch answering questions while he tries to find out why I am going around muttering "Color it purple!"

In the meantime I am suffering unimaginable agonies. On my set I cannot see the color of Gordon Sinclair's eyes. This is most distressing.

Moreover I shall not see the rosy color coming into a woman's face on Front Page Challenge when one of the panel asks the simple little question: "Are you pregnant?"

Well, there it is. Two fearful forces oppress me. One urges me to rush down to Sparks and Blitzen and mortgage my pension for ever and ever (Amen) while the other, a charming lady who, happily, has the more compulsive power, says: "Look, father (she refers to me by this name as the sire of the family, not as a priest), if you buy one of those things then, brother, (a rude term with her) you've had it with me!"

So, color it purple or whatever you like: until we get much better programs than we have at present, mine is black and white, thank you very much.

TODAY in HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oct. 28, 1966 . . .

Oswald Boelcke, the German fighter pilot ace, was killed 50 years ago today—in 1916—after a collision with one of his own pilots. He was then credited with 40 combat victories, 20 scored within two months over the Somme battlefield, while the leading Allied pilot, Guy Gurne, had 37. Boelcke invented the air tactics later used by both sides in the First World War and when the Royal Flying Corps learned of his death, their pilots dropped a wreath on his airfield.

1636—Massachusetts Bay Colony founded a college (later Harvard College.) 1918—Czechoslovakia declared its independence from Austria.

First World War
Fifty years ago today—in 1916—six U.S. crew members died when the British ship Marina was sunk; Russians attacked near Stokhod on the eastern front; Dr. von Koerber became prime minister of Austria.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1941—British recognized Syria's independence; German spearheads were 38 miles from Moscow and 10 miles from Rostov; it was announced Hitler had forbidden further reprisals after 100 Frenchmen had been shot for the assassination of two German officers.

Recreation Under Study

WINNIPEG (CP)—A six-man research team is investigating the way Winnipeg people use the city's recreation facilities. The result may help set the pattern for recreational activities here in the next 10 years.

Dr. John Leicester, formerly associate professor of physical education at the University of Saskatchewan, is directing the survey. He says it's the first of its kind in Canada.

It will cover five areas: 1. recreation history; 2. recreation organization; 3. programming, facilities and personnel; 4. population; 5. the relationship between the city's program and those of other agencies.

The historical survey will include such information as weather—amount of sunshine, normal rainfall and temperature variations.

In the study of persons using recreation facilities the team will consider sex, age, ethnic origin, religion, income, occupation and mobility.

Autumn Shades Form Setting For Ackerman-Deck Wedding

Bronze and yellow chrysanthemums decorated the immaculate Conception Church, and rust, bronze and gold bows marked the pews for the pretty October wedding of Sheila Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian Deck of Kelowna, and William Robert Ackerman of Kelowna, son of Mr. and Mrs. Minard Ackerman of Trail.

Rev. Father Anderson officiated at the double-ring ceremony and the music was provided by Mrs. Lucille Gaudreau of Rutland.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of French crepe. The fitted lace bodice was fashioned with long lilyprint sleeves and a full, slightly bell-shaped skirt was trimmed with small bows and featured a slight train at back. A headpiece of white roses held the bride's shoulder-length veil of fine nylon tulle in place, and she wore a diamond necklace and earrings, gifts from the groom. She carried a cascade bouquet of coral roses.

For something old the bride wore old shoes, for something borrowed a crinoline, and for something blue a garter.

Miss Beverly Anne Deck was her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Loretta Hauk, cousin of the bride, and Miss Faye Ditchhoff. They wore street-length sheath dresses of rust and gold chiffon over peau de soie, their headpieces were gold peau de soie roses trimmed with gold net, and they wore cultured pearl drops, gifts of the bride. They carried bouquets of bronze and rust feathered mums.

The groom's small niece Tracy Deleurne was the flower girl, and she too wore a gold rose in her hair complementing a pretty A-line dress of gold chiffon. She carried a bouquet of bronze and rust feathered mums.

The ring bearer was Bron Roshinsky, nephew of the bride, who wore a grey suit and white boutonniere and carried the wedding rings on a gold satin cushion.

Acting as best man was Wesley Almond, the groomsmen were Lucien Deleurne and Wally Reid, and the ushers were Ricky Cundy and Wilbur Roshinsky, all of Kelowna. At the reception which followed at the Legion Hall, the mother of the bride received wearing a two-piece suit of rust terylene with a black hat, black accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. She was assisted in receiving the guests by the groom's mother, who chose a green two-piece suit with a black hat and black accessories accented with a corsage of white gardenias.

The bridal toasts were proposed by Blair Peters and Tiny Nicholls and George Vetter acted as best man and read telegrams of congratulations from Vancouver.

Centering the bride's table was a three-tiered wedding cake topped with doves bearing silver wedding bands in their bills, standing under an arch of white roses. Bronze and yellow mums completed the table decor.

Out of town guests attending the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Deck of Rard

Senator Neuberger Resents Hoopla Of Today's Campaigns

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic Senator Maurice Neuberger of Oregon, taking a nostalgic and critical view of a woman's lot as a U.S. senator, says the most compelling reason why she is retiring is the gruelling campaign pace and the high cost of running for office.

Mrs. Neuberger said prize-fighters go into seclusion before a big bout while senators face an onslaught of vote influencers.

Now married to a Boston psychiatrist, Dr. Philip Solomon, Senator Neuberger says she's looking forward to retirement to a time to reflect, to read and to think, occupations she said are not readily available to senators.

In fact, she said in a speech at a luncheon given in her honor by the Women's National Press Club, she has found that some of her young nieces and their college-age friends are better informed than she is on current subjects.

ACCEPTS NEW JOB
At 59 Senator Neuberger is stepping down next January, the role of being one of only two women among 100 senators. She has accepted a new job as chairman of the citizen and thinks last.

Let The Kelowna Rotary Club Sponsor Your Tour Of Russia

By FLORA EVANS

The Kelowna Rotary Club is bringing the second of a series of World Wide Films to the Kelowna Community Theatre on Friday, Nov. 4.

Those of you who saw the film on the Alps, presented by the Rotarians in September, will, I am sure mark your calendars and save the evening for a visit to Russia. This film, personally narrated by Dick Reddy, will take you inside the Kremlin walls, to the Bolshoi Ballet and the University of Moscow. You will visit cathedrals, palaces and monuments, take an excursion on the Black Sea, go on a camping trip, attend a naval parade, and visit the principal cities of Russia.

This series of pictures is in color, the narratives are vivid and intimate, in fact having attended the film on the Alps myself—somewhat reluctantly because I have found most travel films rather dry fare—I am now a travel addict. If you can not tour through Russia personally, most of us can not, I can only suggest you take the tour next Friday as the guest of the Rotarians and spend an evening you will never forget.

AROUND TOWN

Special guests visiting Kelowna to take part in the Gyro Installation Banquet to be held this evening at Capri are District Governor Colin Rutherford and Mrs. Rutherford, and District Secretary Gerald Neely and Mrs. Neely, from the Camouson Club in Victoria, who are staying at the Capri Motor Hotel.

Also visiting Kelowna to attend the Gyro Installation Banquet are Mr. and Mrs. Archie Morris from Nanaimo who are staying with friends.

Some 25 friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hawksworth, Royal Ave., gathered at the Totem Inn in Peachland to surprise the couple on their Silver Anniversary last Saturday. After dinner Mr. and Mrs. Hawksworth were presented with a beautiful pair of propane gas grills, a silver service set, a silver clock, and a silver vase.

Later the party progressed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnston in Kelowna where refreshments, highlighted by a lovely anniversary cake baked and decorated by the hostess, were served. Mr. and Mrs. Hawksworth who left on Sunday to visit Radium Hot Springs, Calgary and Edmonton, are at present visiting friends in Calgary. During their absence their home is being occupied by relatives.

The fifty children who registered for the series of Creative Drama Classes which began last Saturday, thoroughly enjoyed their first experience, judging by after class comments. Under the guidance of Professor Janie Stevenson, Faculty of Edfonton, UBC, the children tasted the first of what should be a rewarding and stimulating experience. Mrs. Paddy Malcom, drama teacher of Vernon will instruct the next nine sessions.

Mrs. Robert Bailey, chairman of the University Women's Club committee who arranged for the sessions, said that a few more children would be welcome to enroll for class this Saturday morning. Please telephone 2-8582 if you wish further information.

ANN LANDERS

Golden Age Swingers Should Get Married

Dear Ann Landers: Apparently you were not aware of the changes in the Social Security laws or you would have given better advice to that 70-year-old widow who moved in with a gentleman of the same age. The woman said marriage was out because she would then lose her deceased husband's social security. A widow can now remarry and collect 50 per cent of her deceased husband's social security. Please tell her—and thousands of others.—FIELD REPRESENTATIVE F.N.T.

Dear Rep: Thank you for the information. And now to all of you golden age swingers who are living together without benefit of clergy—check with your local social security office and get married already.

Dear Ann Landers: Please don't ask parents to stay together for the sake of the children. I have a teen-age son who has been begging me to get a divorce. He says he cannot respect a woman who takes so much abuse.

My husband has told me in front of the boy that all women are tramps and not to be trusted. His mother carried on an affair with a roomer in her own home for years. His sisters were rounders, too. After they married they continued to chase with men, even though they had large families.

I have left my husband four times because my son has asked me to but I always go back. He has slapped me in front of the boy time and time again. I'm sure this makes my son lose respect for me. Please tell me what to do so I can have some peace of mind in my old age.—PROBLEMS GALORE

Dear Galore: Most women who stay with abusive husbands do so for themselves. By your own admission you can't live with the bum—or without him. Your husband is a sick cookie and you are sick, too, or you would not have stayed around to take the abuse.

It is impossible to help people who refuse to help themselves. And you don't want to be helped. You'd rather wallow in your misery.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is in regard to the Pittsburgh teen-ager who wrote to you about the elderly man who wanted to give her $5 because she exchanged a few pleasant words with him while waiting for an elevator. You praised the girl for her friendliness and I am not saying you were wrong, BUT—

Westbank Couple To Mark Golden Wedding On Sunday

WESTBANK — Celebrating their golden wedding Sunday, October 30, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Metz are holding "open house" from 1 to 3 p.m. at their home on 6th Ave. North in Westbank.

Mrs. Metz, the former Miss Elizabeth Schaefer, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Anton Schaefer of Balgonie, Sask., and was born in 1900. Born in Russia in 1893, Mr. Metz came from that country with his parents in 1899, to Holdfast, Sask. Married October 30, 1916, Mr. and Mrs. Metz lived in Saskatchewan until 1934, when they came to Kelowna, making their home in that district until 1958, when they moved to Westbank.

Of their family of three sons and two daughters, two sons and a daughter are living: Bert, in Westbank; Ed, in Guelph, Ont.; and Evelyn, Mrs. Roy Moser, in Westbank. One son, Andy, was killed in a logging truck accident near Kelowna in 1958, and their daughter, Betty, Mrs. Henry Neufeld, of Stettler, Alta., died that same year. Mr. and Mrs. Metz have 22 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Following Sunday's "open house" there will be a dinner for relatives and close friends.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan
It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.
If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

TAKE FIVE

By DENIS CASEY

It's that time again; to take a look at that national pastime of five pin bowling. In fact most leagues have been in operation for the past month or more.

A. for the column, I'm a little behind. It's like my bowling (a slow starter). But with all the enthusiasm in the past month and a half and many new faces taking part in the various leagues this should prove to be an interesting season.

Just for the record I would like it to be known that this column is published through the co-operation of your district five pin association and the newspaper. So please show your appreciation by supporting both.

SUMMER EVENTS:
A tournament held in conjunction with the Hydroplane Races was sponsored by the district five pin association with the thought in mind to provide a bit more evening entertainment. Both events proved quite successful and brought out a number of entrants.

MATCH PLAY SYSTEM:
A new bowling league got underway this year. The Major Mixed League, which is creating an amount of interest throughout our area. It is comprised of the majority of high average bowlers in the district. By the scores being posted, it certainly proves that bowling with good competition makes for better scores. Here is an outline of league operation.

It is comprised of 16 teams using two bowling alleys and alternating back and forth every week or so. This is a no handicap league run on the Match Play System of scoring and each team must have a scratch total of less than 1051.

This is based on your highest league average at the end of the last bowling season. Floating spares are also used. This means that there are a number of male and female spares available. If a team needs a spare they contact a person on the spare list who has approximately 12 the same average as that of the missing bowler. By the end of the season the spares may have bowled on every team in the league.

The reason this league was established is to promote a greater interest in bowling and to improve the calibre of the bowlers representing Kelowna in provincial and inter-provincial competitions.

WESTERN CANADA TRIALS
The Western Canada trials will begin this year on Nov. 6. This is a 32-game contest with both Kelowna and Penticton bowlers taking part. The top 28 bowlers will make up the two teams to represent the districts competing. This method has been adopted with the idea of producing two strong teams to represent our Valley in the B.C. and the Western Canada roll-offs. The teams will be known as the "Okanagan Vee's" and the "Okanagan Mac's". I would like to see all enthusiastic bowlers come out and try to earn a spot on either team.

Don't forget, the first block of eight games begins Nov. 6 at 12 o'clock sharp. Ladies roll in Valley Lanes and the men at Meridian Lanes.

As this is the first column, I haven't collected specific information on bowlers participating in the various leagues; but hope to give it a go next time round.

A special note to all statisticians; if you have any news of interest for the column leave the facts with the proprietor of the bowling alley, or give it to the five pin liaison officers in that particular house and they will pass it on for publication.

Here is a list of the officers: Valley Lanes, Andy Kitch; Meridian Lanes, Evelyn Baak; Bowladrome, Bruce Bennett. Let's hear from all the leagues, this includes the various school leagues also.

I asked earlier for your co-operation with the five pin association in order to promote and improve bowling in general. Give your support and attend the Hardtimes Ball to be held at Tintling's on October 29 at 9:30 p.m. Admission is only $1. Bring along your friends. A good time is in store for everyone.

Cub Line Ready For Action Determined To Stop Schaab

Penticton Golden Hawks move into Kelowna tonight determined to put a crimp in the tail of the Okanagan-Mainline Secondary School Football League leading Kelowna Cubs.

One point separates these two clubs in the fight for Valley football supremacy. The Cubs lead the league with five wins and one tie for 11 points, while the Hawks have 10 points on five wins and one loss. The Hawks lone defeat came at the hands of the local Cubs and it can be figured the Peach City crew will be looking for revenge.

A win for the Cubs tonight will be all they need to wrap up the title. But, a big wrangle at the moment, should the Hawks win, the championship will be decided when the Golden Hawks meet the Vernon Panthers Nov. 12. Tonight's game is a must for the Hawks as well as the Cubs so the action should be hot and heavy.

Wayne Schaab, described as a scrambling quarterback, will be the big threat for the Golden Hawks tonight. Schaab is a hard player to stop, mainly because no one knows where he is going to be or what bag of tricks he is going to use next.

The Cubs' defensive line of Kasper Walraven, Stan Berger, Jim Donald, Ersin Shaad and Ken Wilson will be after the Hawk quarterback's tail feathers tonight. "The only way we can stop him," (Schaab) is to drive through the line and nail him in the backfield before he can get set to move. This will be tonight's strategy as laid down by the defensive coach Bill Ewing.

Should the Hawks take to the air, which in all probability they will, the Cubs' deep secondary, Grant Gaucher, Brock Aynsley, and Doug Pettman will be there to foil an aerial attack thrown at the Cubs.

Both Kelowna coaches are confident the Cubs will be up for tonight's game and are predicting a win. Game time is 8 p.m. in Elks' Stadium.

Stamps Want Ideal Setting For WFC Playoff Showdown

EDMONTON (CP) — Coach Jerry Williams of Calgary Stampers wants ideal conditions for tonight's game over Calgary in Saturday when the Stampers attempt to climb past Edmonton Eskimos in the third and last Western Football Conference playoff spot.

Faced with the need to outscore Edmonton by 21 points to enter the playoffs, the Stampers need all the offensive thrust they can muster. Williams feels extreme cold or sloppy playing would hamper the offence of each club, but Calgary would be hurt more because they have limited running ability.

Williams admitted Thursday he can't expect his offence to provide many more points than it managed Tuesday in a 28-0 defeat by Saskatchewan Roughriders, but he is prepared to demand a stiffer defensive display.

The game at Clarke Stadium will be televised by the CBC western network at 8 p.m. MST.

FINAL GAME SUNDAY
The WFC schedule concludes Sunday when Winnipeg Blue Bombers, assured of second place, meet the last-place British Columbia Lions at Vancouver. The game will be televised in the west by CTV at 2 p.m. PDT.

Coach Neil Armstrong of Edmonton admitted the tension has him "full of ulcers" but he was confident Edmonton would win.

His players said after practice they don't want to "back into" the playoffs. A victory would leave them tied with Winnipeg for second place but Winnipeg has won all three meetings with Edmonton this season and has a superior record of points for and against.

Winnipeg will meet the third-place finisher in Winnipeg Nov. 6 in a sudden-death semi-final. The survivor meets league champion Saskatchewan in a best-of-three final.

Blue Bomber coach Bud Grant is not looking for a breather in the meaningless game Sunday and B.C. coach Dave Skrien said he will experiment with possible adjustments for next season.

Saskatchewan, with a 17-day layoff before the start of the final, received one piece of bad news. Galen Wahmister, who handles snaps in kick situations and is a fine downfield tackler, suffered a knee injury against Calgary and is through for the season.

Wings Come Shooting Snap Streak At Home

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit Red Wings broke a four-game losing streak Thursday night and the man responsible for ending the slump was Paul Henderson.

Henderson, 23, a native of Kincardine, Ont., scored four goals and assisted in another to pace the Red Wings to a 5-3 victory over New York Rangers in the night's only National Hockey League game.

Henderson's goals brought his season total to eight, the most goals scored by any player this season, and moved him into third place in the NHL individual scoring race. It marked the first time that he has scored four goals in a game.

Norm Ullman scored the other Detroit goal, his first of the season, and also picked up three assists.

Don Marshall scored a pair of goals for the Rangers while Bernie Geoffrion, attempting a comeback after two years as a coach of Quebec Aces in the American Hockey League, scored his first with New York.

The Wings trailed 1-0 at the end of the first period when Geoffrion scored while Detroit's Gary Bergman was serving a minor penalty.

Marshall increased New York's lead to 2-0 at 1:36 of the second period while Dean Prentice of Detroit was in the penalty box. But the Red Wings led by Henderson, suddenly turned into a slashing, brawling crowd determined to end the losing streak.

Ullman scored at 2:30 of the second period and Henderson led the score 31 seconds later. Henderson, a right winger, put Detroit ahead 3-2 at 8:55 with his sixth goal of the season at 8:55 when he steered in Andy Bathgate's slap shot while New York's Wayne Hillman was serving a minor penalty.

Henderson put the Red Wings on top 4-2 at 14:50 when he beat Rangers netminder Ed Gilmartin on a breakaway.

Marshall netted his second goal of the night with one second remaining in the middle period. It came with Detroit's Bob McCord in the penalty box. Henderson closed out the scoring in the third period from close in after a scramble in front of the net.

PEPPER RANGER GOALIE
The Red Wings peppered Gilmartin with 49 shots while the Rangers fired 28 at Roger Crozier in the Detroit net.

The loss put New York in a tie for third place with Toronto Maple Leafs while Detroit is tied with Boston Bruins in last place.

The Rangers were without left winger Doug Robinson who was sent to Baltimore Clippers of the AHL earlier in the day. He had played in two games with New York and had no points.

Two games are scheduled Thursday — the Rangers visit Montreal and the Bruins travel to Toronto. Boston is at Detroit Sunday.

Defenceman Marcel Pronovost will miss Toronto's next five games because of a knee injury and defenceman Bob Baum is out with a broken thumb.

Toronto coach Punch Imlach said he would go with four defencemen — Allan Stanley, Larry Hillman, Tim Horton and Kent Douglas.

The Bruins will be without right winger Ron Stewart sidelined two or three weeks because of a torn cartilage near the rib cage.

From Ford of Canada...
Unsurpassed Comprehensive Warranties

New Car "3-Point Warranty Plan"

- 1) 5 year 50,000 miles on the power train, steering, suspension and wheels.
- 2) 2 year 24,000 miles on the entire car.
- 3) Only one dealer certification per year.

Used Car Factory-Backed Warranty

2 year or 50,000 miles available on 1964, 1965 and 1966 models!

New Car "3-Point Warranty Plan" Used Car Factory-Backed Warranty

5/50,000 Power Train, Steering, Suspension and Wheels

Our 5 year or 50,000 mile warranty on the power train, steering gear and linkage, front and rear suspension, and road wheels, of our 1967 cars provides free repair, including labor, of parts in those systems with a defect in workmanship or material found in normal service.

2/24,000 Entire car

Our 2 year or 24,000 mile warranty on the entire car provides repair and related labor by authorized dealerships, at no charge, of any part with a defect in workmanship or material . . . if found in normal service (except tires which continue to be warranted by the tire companies).

Only one dealer certification per year

And only Ford of Canada gives you a whole year (instead of six months) between required dealer certification . . . no matter how many miles you drive. The Ford Motor Company's "3 Point Warranty Plan" is the most convenient a new car buyer can get. It also adds a new standard of value during the time you own the car, and also when you sell or trade, because it can be passed along to the subsequent owner.

2/50,000 on 1964, 1965 and 1966 models

Ford of Canada takes the doubt out of buying a used car. This unique warranty applies to any new 1966 model or used 1966, 1965 or 1964 Ford of Canada car eligible and certified by a participating dealer. The power train is covered for 50,000 miles total operation or 2 years of your ownership — whichever comes first. Over all, this new power train warranty could give protection for up to five years from the date your car was made.

If you now own one of our cars, no more than three years old and driven less than 50,000 miles, this warranty is available to you, too, provided the car is certified by a Ford of Canada dealer and registered at a cost of $35.00. After certification, you'll never have to pay more than $35.00 for any single power train repair that's covered. Ask your Ford or Mercury dealer for full details.

Great news for light truck owners!

Every Ford of Canada light truck, through series 350, is now covered by a 5 year/ 50,000 mile power train warranty in addition to the 2 year/24,000 mile warranty on the entire vehicle. See your local Ford or Mercury dealer for full details.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. JAY BECKER
(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

QUIZ
You have the following hand, neither side vulnerable:

♠874 ♥5 ♦Q83 ♣AK9762

1. Your partner bids One No-trump and your right-hand opponent bids Two Hearts. What would you bid now?
2. Your partner bids One Spade to which you respond Two Clubs. Your partner then bids Two Spades. What would you bid now?
3. Your right-hand opponent bids Three Hearts. After two passes, your partner doubles. What would you bid now?
4. Your partner bids One Spade to which you respond Two Clubs. Your partner then bids Two No-trump. What would you bid now?

Partner is almost certain to have at least one heart stopper, and once this is granted, the best chance of game lies in no-trump. Five clubs could be better than three no-trump, but there is no practical way of reaching that contract without jeopardizing the no-trump game.

2. Four spades. You have only nine points in high cards, but game is nevertheless probable in the light of partner's rebid in spades (showing at least five spades) and the value of your singleton heart. To bid only three spades in the hope that partner will go on is too pessimistic a view to take. You shouldn't expect partner to lose four tricks.

3. Five clubs. You can't afford to bid only four clubs because you would do that with a much weaker hand. The best way of showing your values is by jumping to five clubs, which just about represents your hand.

If partner passes, you will probably make five clubs; if he raises to six, you will probably make that also.

The trap to avoid is four clubs. This bid would not be doing your hand justice.

4. Three spades. You have the high-card values for a raise to three no-trump, but you have the wrong distribution for this kind of bid. If partner has a will probably play better at spades, but if he has only four spades, the best contract is likely to be no-trump.

The three spade bid (forcing) asks partner to choose between spades and no-trump, depending on the length of his spades. The final decision belongs to him.

Calona Wines Limited, 1125 Richter Street, Kelowna, B.C. has filed an application with the Pollution Control Board for permission for disposal of cooling water into Mill Creek from a distillery to be located in the Rutland Area of the Okanagan Valley, on land legally described as Lot 1, part of Lot A, Plan 13677, N.E. 1/4, Section 34, Township 26 Osoyoos, Division of Yale District.

The distillery will be operated 9-12 times per year, for periods of 5 days each time, on a 24 hour basis.

The water will be obtained from a deep well to be drilled on the site.

Details of Cooling Water:
Maximum Hourly Rate of CF S or 25 I.G.P.M.
Maximum 12 Hour Discharge 18000 I.G.
Maximum 24 Hour Discharge 36000 I.G.
Suspended Solids p.p.m.: Before Treatment, Average 11; After Treatment, Average 11, Maximum 11.
Total Solids p.p.m.: Before Treatment, Average 401; After Treatment, Average 401, Maximum 401.
Biochemical Oxygen Demand p.p.m.: Before Treatment, Average 0; After Treatment, Average 0, Maximum 0.
pH: Before Treatment, Average, 8.3; After Treatment, Average 8.3, Maximum 8.3.
Temperature °F: Before Treatment, Average 105; After Treatment, Average 72, Maximum 80.

In that the water will be obtained from a deep well, it is assumed that it will not contain coliform bacteria or toxic chemicals.

This cooling water will not be treated with corrosion or scaling inhibitors. After leaving the cooling equipment at a temperature of 105° F it will be passed through an atmospheric water cooling equipment at a temperature of 72° to 80° before entering Mill Creek.

The Process waste water and Boiler water blowdown will be stored in a lagoon with a capacity for a year's operation with a 25% reserve. This water will be used as irrigation water for a fodder crop to be grown on the unused land on the property. It will be distributed through a pressure sprinkler irrigation system. The total amount of water to be irrigated will amount to 176,000 I.G. per year.

The washroom waste will be disposed of through a septic tank and Tile Field system.

Objection to the granting of approval of this application may be filed within thirty days with the:

REGIONAL COLLEGE COUNCIL president Frank Venables points out college site on aerial map.

'Mr. Oliver', Leading Light In Regional College Plans

A letter came to the Oliver post office one day, not long ago, addressed simply to "Mr. Oliver," Oliver, B.C.

Without hesitation, the mail sorters sent it along to Frank Venables.

"Sure enough," Mr. Venables recalls, "It was for me."

If anyone has earned the title of "Mr. Oliver" over the years, it is energetic Frank Venables, whose reputation as a leading orchardist is second only to the esteem in which he is held for his activities in the field of education.

Mr. Venables, 67, is now capping a long career as a school trustee by being one of the prime figures in the organization of the Okanagan Regional College.

As chairman of the college council, Mr. Venables estimates that he has travelled 30,000 miles up and down the valley and back and forth from Victoria on college business.

He has been to as many as four meetings a week in Kelowna," he recalls. "I'm getting to know the highway as well as my own driveway."

Mr. Venables, who has been a school trustee for going on 36 years, the last 26 of them as chairman of Southern Okanagan School Board, believes that the establishment of the college will be the most important educational advancement seen in the Valley in many years.

"I'm getting worried that in the arguments over the site and in the delays in getting the college under way, the people who are suffering most are those young people of the Valley who should be going on to some form of higher education, but who do not have the money or the inclination to go to the coast to complete their education," he says.

"And too often those who do go to the coast never return to the Valley. We are losing many of our finest young people."

"The Okanagan Regional College will offer them advanced training and education that will fit them into jobs in the Valley, thus ensuring that many will stay on here."

Mr. Venables says college president Norman Walker is now hard at work preparing final figures on costs in preparation for the referendum, which is to go before voters this December.

Mr. Venables, who settled in Oliver 46 years ago, and who is a former president of the B.C. School Trustees' Association and the Canadian School Trustees Association, says that in his 36 years on the school board he has only missed three meetings "and for two of those meetings I was out of town on official school board business."

"I got permission from one mother and I took the children. I transported them myself for a week. Gradually more parents decided to send their children and members of the Rotary Club and the PTA joined in to help with the transportation."

"Next the Indian Affairs department supplied a taxi. Today we have a 36-passenger bus to transport the Indian children and it is full."

Mr. Venables also gets tremendous satisfaction out of his role as Santa Claus each Christmas in Oliver. "I have been Santa Claus to Oliver children as long as I can remember," he says.

"I know all of the children in Oliver so well that they all call me Frank, but they don't say it in a smart-alecky way."

Mr. Venables' philosophy in life is simple: "You have got to do something for others, otherwise there is no point in being in this world."

Mr. Venables and his wife Vera have two sons — Bob in Oliver and Norman in Grand Forks, and two daughters, Mrs. John Moore, Oliver, and Mrs. Vera Minge, Merritt. He has 17 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

"I only hope that by the time all of my grandchildren are ready to go on to a higher education, that the Okanagan Regional College will be a flourishing institution that offers them and all young people of the district the same educational opportunity as children in other parts of the province," he says.

"After all, what more can one ask?"

STAMPS MARK SAFETY LLANDUDNO, Wales (CP) — Safety officers at British factories are thinking of giving away trading stamps in a drive against industrial accidents. A delegate at their annual convention here said many British companies are already considering the idea.

Newcomers to the community are Mr. and Mrs. A. Allison, Teddy and Terry, who are living in a trailer at Bates Bay View. Mr. Allison is employed by the Big Indian Drilling Company.

At a short business meeting held Wednesday members of the Peachland United Church Women made further arrangements for the annual fall bazaar which is to be held this year at the Legion Hall Nov. 4. After this meeting all members adjourned to the United Church to attend a film presented by the Rev. J. A. R. Tingley of Vancouver, secretary of the B.C. Bible Society. Also in attendance at this film were members of the Peachland Baptist Church and St. Margaret's W.A.

Quick! Do you know the name of your insurance company?

Don't be surprised if you find it's the "Royal". After all, it's the largest general insurance group in Canada. Chances are you didn't know that! You see, the Royal does not have salesmen. It deals through independent agents, like us. We are neighbours to you; we're impartial — the best kind of insurance men to know your needs. It's an arrangement that works well for you.

Boy Scouts Group Committee Established At Rutland Meet

RUTLAND—A group committee of the Venturers program for older Scouts, and the admission of 11-year-olds from the Wolf Cubs into the Boy Scouts.

There was some unfavorable comment on these moves from some members and Scouters. Scoutmaster Johnson felt the 11-year-olds were too young and small to participate in the Boy Scout camping and hiking activities, and Chairman Fitzpatrick felt the Venturers would take away the leaders from the Scouts at a time when they were most useful.

Most of those present were enrolled as members of the group committee, and with Hugh Fitzpatrick, a former Troop Leader of the Rutland Boy Scouts, as chairman, an active year is anticipated.

WROTE NEW TUNE

Folk-singer Ian Tyson wrote the theme for Sunday, CBC-TV's replacement for This Hour Has Seven Days.

ALMA COGAN
... early death

Alma Cogan Dies At 34

LONDON (CP)—Alma Cogan, one of Britain's most travelled and highest paid girl singers, died in hospital Wednesday. She was 34.

A close friend said the cause of death was leukemia.

Miss Cogan's career had been frequently interrupted by illness in recent years. Early last month she collapsed during a tour of Sweden and returned to London where she was admitted to hospital.

The daughter of a London haberdasher, Miss Cogan was billed as the girl with a laugh in her voice and achieved success on Britain's commercial television network. At her peak she was paid £10,000 ($30,000) a performance.

Known as Britain's most eligible bachelor girl, she was romantically linked with Cary Grant and songwriter Lionel Bart, creator of the long-running musical Oliver.

Ian Fleming Past Revealed

LONDON (Reuters) — The late Ian Fleming, who created Secret Agent 007, James Bond, was in Canada during the Second World War, training in subversion and sabotage, a published excerpt from his biography says.

The copyright excerpt from John Pearson's The Life of Ian Fleming, to be published by Jonathan Cape, appears in The Sunday Times.

The excerpt contains some never-before-published details of then naval commander Fleming's war, says the newspaper.

Pearson writes that during the war Fleming's hero, Canadian Sir William Stephenson, had established at Oshawa, Ont., the foremost training ground for sabotage and subversion in the New World. Fleming spent a few days there in 1941.

GOT HIGH MARKS

The extract from the biography says Fleming got the highest marks of anyone on the course for an underwater exercise, similar to the long swim Bond performed in Live and Let Die, when he fixed a "mpet mine to the hull of the Secatur. Pearson says Fleming with other trainees was assigned to plant an imaginary bomb in a Toronto power station. He succeeded in the test where others failed by posing as a visiting British engineer.

Stephenson, head of British Intelligence in North and South America, is quoted as saying Fleming was one of the best students the school ever had, but he did not have the temperament to become an agent.

LONDON (CP) — Winston Churchill emerged in his early years as a brash gambler who played for high stakes on foreign battlefields, risking his life in hungry pursuit of medals and decorations to serve his "colossal ambition."

"He sought fame and glory so that he could lay aside his sword and seize the pen with which he could liberate himself from financial thralldom," says his son, Randolph, in the first volume of what he plans as a massive five-book biography on the great British statesman.

"As he was gladly willing to venture his life on these foolhardy enterprises, who shall say that his motives were contemptible?"

Winston was the child virtually ignored by his socially prominent parents; the schoolboy who flouted authority and got beaten for stealing sugar from a pantry; the laggard in studies; the extravagant officer cadet who could not pay his debts; the youth who hungered for heroism and world attention and the successful lecturer who bragged on his great financial success in Canada and the United States.

"I had magnificent audiences in Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto," he could write his "Dear Mamma" in 1901. "I am very proud of the fact that there is not one person in a million who at my age (26) could have earned £10,000 without any capital in less than two years."

IT'S RICH MINE

The book, published by William Heinemann Ltd., is a rich mine of Winston's early letters, throwing great insight on the curious development of the wartime leader who yearned and begged for his mamma while at school and who later used his mother and anyone else available to mount the ladder of political success.

He used influence to get into the 4th Queen's Own Hussars; to join fighting units wherever they could be found; to become attached to military expeditions in Cuba, India, Sudan and South Africa. He used influence to get his letters from the front published as newspaper dispatches. And when his mother's influence failed, he would go higher, right up to the Prince of Wales.

Winston was born of the Marlboroughs—but at an inconvenient time. His father, Lord Randolph Churchill, and his mother—the American beauty Jennie Jerome—were enjoying the hunt near their Blenheim Palace estate when Winston arrived, two months premature.

The marriage between the son of a duke and the daughter of a wealthy American businessman had been solemnized with all the niceties of love and cold business—Jennie's father agreed to settle £2,000 a year on her for life, with the money to fall under the control of her husband.

Winston's mother loved the gay social glitter while Lord Randolph was deeply involved in politics. Winston learned to worship his mother from afar.

WINSTON NEGLECTED

"The neglect and lack of interest in him shown by his parents were remarkable, even judged by the standards of late Victorian and Edwardian days," says Randolph. "His letters to his mother from his various schools abound in pathetic requests for letters and for visits."

This neglect, which Winston later used as a shell to harden himself against self-pity, was aggravated by another family blow. At the early age of 46, when Winston was just 20, Lord Randolph died and young Winston found himself at the head of the family. He had acquired extravagant tastes. He needed funds and sometimes found could not meet the demands of the money lenders. On a number of occasions his mother found herself confronted with her son's debts. But she herself was no modest spender. And before long the pretty widow had squandered her fortune.

Poverty helped make Winston "shove." He pranced his pony before the battle lines, chancing death for the sake of publicity and medals. He demanded and got good fees for his journalistic dispatches from the fronts. He gained great publicity from a bold and controversial escape when the Boers captured him in 1899 and held him in a prisoner-of-war camp, despite his insistence that he was a journalist and not a warrior.

Six months later Winston was back in action, this time as part of the victorious army that took Pretoria and relieved the 217-day siege of Mafeking. Winston returned to England, basking in glorious publicity. He soon piled up earnings as a popular speaker and even got a seat in Parliament.

MOST UNPLEASANT

The 608-page book ends with Winston pulling in cash on the Canada - United States lecture circuit where he quarrelled with his agent for underselling his tour.

"For instance, he sold Toronto for $500 (£100) and the takings at the door amounted to near £450, out of which on his arrangements I got only £70. Naturally I protested against this sort of thing and we had a most unpleasant squabble."

Winston followed the lure of crowds and cash. He even had landed in Winnipeg — "1,400 miles from any British town of importance"—where he learned in January, 1901 that Queen Victoria had died.

Of the new monarch he wrote his mother from Winnipeg: "I should like to know an emperor and a king. Edward the VIIth—gadzoos what a long way that seems to take one back"

Winston, of course, was to know many kings and monarchs and to serve his own in his "finest hour."

This Is The Vital Lesson Don't Underestimate TV Corn

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Some observers of the television scene drew this lesson from the first Nielsen ratings of the 1966-67 season: never underestimate the value of corn.

Semi-Nude Mansfield Unwanted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Actress Jayne Mansfield has been appearing at the San Francisco Film Festival without an invitation, the general manager of the event was quoted as saying Monday.

She said later "I was invited and I'm going to many other events."

"She was not invited," festival General Manager David Sacks said. "She came anyway; she was not welcome."

Miss Mansfield has been prominent at film festival events and appeared the first night wearing a fore- and -aft dress with nothing at the sides but straps to hold it together.

She made her reply to Sacks' statements at a press conference in the apartment of a friend, Sam Brody, Miss Mansfield's Los Angeles lawyer, sat by her side and produced a folder filled with film festival literature.

Included were invitations to cocktail parties, a plane ticket and a few admission slips to festival events with the name of singer Polly Bergen typed out and Jayne Mansfield typed above.

There also was a report that she arrived Thursday night for a Chamber of Commerce film festival cocktail party dressed mainly in a G-string and backless skirt and covering her breasts with two chihuahua dogs.

Martha Rave Aids Wounded Troops

SAIGON (AP) — Comedienne Martha Rave, a front-line trouper for 24 years, changed her routine last week. She donned fatigues and worked for two days in an army field dispensary, cleansing wounds, changing bandages and comforting U.S. soldiers wounded in a Mekong Delta battle.

This is the attitude of certain sophisticates who sniff at the fact that among the top 10 shows in audience ratings were such offerings as Green Acres, Gomer Pyle, The Andy Griffith Show and Beverly Hillbillies.

Green Acres captured the No. 2 position below the blockbusting Sunday night movie, The Bridge on the River Kwai. Do they grow corn on those Green Acres?

"I don't think so," says Jay Sommers, who created, co-writes and produces the series. "I think it's a fairly sophisticated show."

Sommers, a rotund, owlish veteran of the gag-writing jungle, doesn't really care what the smart crowd thinks of Green Acres. It's his baby, and as long as the public buys it, that's all that matters.

The inspiration for the show came from Sommers' boyhood, of which two years were spent on a farm in Greendale, N.Y. His stepfather went broke trying to earn a living from the soil, and the experiences remained with the boy.

The secret of Green Acres' success?

"I think it appeals to a basic human urge; everyone would like to buy a farm," Sommers theorized. "And we came up with a brilliant combination in Eddie Albert and Eva Gabor. They work together like a dream."

Actor Clifton Webb Left $100,000 Estate

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Clifton Webb's will leaves half of his estate to his secretary, Mrs. Helen Mathews Dalrymple when the will was filed for probate Tuesday. Webb's lawyer would not disclose the amount of the estate, but said it was greater than $100,000. Webb, who died a bachelor Oct. 13 at age 76, left one-quarter of the estate to the Motion Picture Relief Fund.

Canadian Group To Educate U.K.

VICTORIA (CP)—The Canadian Strangers are planning a crusade to England to convert the British ear from its five-year binge of Beatle music.

The difference in sound of this seven-man Victoria music combo follows elimination of the electric guitar, which dominates other rock 'n' roll music, says drummer-leader Barry Casson.

The members of the band are betting $3,500 of their own savings on the success of their musical recipe, based on two tenor saxophones and a trumpet backed by a portable organ, drums and an electric bass.

"It is definitely easier to get a start in England than in Canada," reports Casson. He already has some contacts and is looking for bookings in the dance-hall circuit and in lodges and clubs.

There's work to be had in the United States too, said singer Bobby Faulds, but the band, averaging 22 years old, does not like the possibility of being drafted for the war in Viet Nam.

"I could have got a six-month contract easily, but you have to sign a card saying you are eligible for the draft."

The group is confident of success and so, presumably, are the three wives they'll be leaving behind at the start. One of the saxophonists is throwing up his job as assistant manager of a finance company.

Canadians Arrive For Song Festival

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters) Canadian singer-composer Alan Blye, with his arranger Johnny Dale, arrived here by air Wednesday to take part in the first international popular song festival this weekend. The Canadian entry in the 28-nation contest is called Never Come to Be.

MOVIE highlights

The award-winning film The Collector is coming to the Kelowna Drive-In Theatre Saturday, Monday and Tuesday.

The psychological spine-thrilling drama is adult entertainment only.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 2, 3, 4, Phaedra is double-billed with Gunmen From Laredo. Shows begin at dusk.

At the Paramount Theatre the film Patch of Blue continues Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 at 7 and 9 p.m. It is adult entertainment.

Wednesday to Saturday, Nov. 2 to 5, The Glass Bottom Boat will be seen at 7 and 9 p.m. and at the Saturday matinee at 2 p.m.

The Collector is a double award winner. At the Cannes Film Festival the best actor award went to Terrence Stamp and best actress Samantha Eggar. Freddie Clegg, in his mid-twenties, is an insignificant London bank clerk whose hobby is the collecting and mounting of butterflies. He is ill-equipped for life. An unattractive fellow, he is prudish, plain, dull, tasteless, victim of a nonconformist conscience and a dormant imagination.

When he wins $200,000 in the football pools, his life changes considerably. The money allows him to get rid of his hateful aunt, the one who had raised him, by sending her on a trip to Canada. The money buys him a van in which to search for more specimens. More important, it gives him a chance of doing something about Miranda Grey.

Miranda is a lovely young girl, full of the joy of life; outgoing, friendly and growing both mentally and artistically. Freddie has long admired Miranda from afar, seeing her leave the art school where she studies, and he has hungered for her company.

Now that he is rich, an idea comes to him. He buys a house in the secluded district of Sussex, a house having what he wants most, most, a strong cellar. He furnishes it in his own idea of good taste, which is actually appalling, a photograph, lots of classical records, books on art and a good supply of clothes in Miranda's measurements.

Then, with chloroform pad at hand, he stalks her through the London streets, kidnaps her and deposits her, strongly trussed, in the cellar-prison. For the next two months, a distraught and unbelieving Miranda tries every feminine wile as well as every appeal to reason, every argument for decency, even intent to kill, in order to gain her freedom.

Phaedra stars Anthony Perkins and Raf Vallone in a modern version of the Euripides drama. The story tells of the tragic love affair between the beautiful second wife of an older man and her young, sensitive stepson. The setting is current-day Greece, London and Paris without any loss of the original simplicity and impact of the classic.

Gunmen From Laredo is an outdoor adventure film.

Robert Knapp plays the embittered rancher who, while on the trail during a cattle drive, is ambushed by Walter Coy and his brothers, the "Gunmen From Laredo". When the smoke has cleared Knapp's wife and foreman lie dead, and Knapp wounded. Headed for revenge, he guns down one of the killed henchmen. He is framed for murder and sent to prison but, filled with hate and a compelling desire for revenge, he breaks out and again heads for Laredo.

Knapp's desperate trek across the desert is complicated by desert storms as well as a furious fight with a hot-blooded Indian brave who had kidnapped a beautiful Indian girl, Jana Davi from a neighboring tribe. With the girl on his hands, Knapp must also overcome such formidable obstacles as the enmity of an Indian chieftain, father of the dead brave; the Laredo Marshal waiting to pick him up and, of course the desperadoes whom he is hunting.

A Patch of Blue stars Sidney Poitier and Shelly Winters and introduces Elizabeth Hartman. Miss Hartman plays a striking role, that of Selina, a young blind girl living in a sordid tenement environment with her slatternly mother (Miss Winters) and an alcoholic ineffectual grandfather (Wallace Ford). Cut off from the sights of the world, her only happiness is in being taken to the park by a Polish merchant for whom she strings beads to help out with the family expenses.

Here, one day, she meets Gordon (Poitier) and it is an encounter which changes her entire life. He becomes the only friend Selina has ever known.

With humor and tact he teaches her the first steps to becoming self-reliant — how to make her way in busy thoroughfares, how to do her shopping in a supermarket, how to hide the scars underneath her eyes with dark glasses.

The process in which the subdued and frightened Selina emerges from her chrysalis to become a radiant, laughing, happy girl is shown in scenes of tremendous poignancy.

Eventually, her mother discovers the friendship between Selina and Gordon and in the picture's surging climax comes close to destroying her newfound happiness and freedom.

The Glass Bottom Boat stars Doris Day and Arthur Godfrey as daughter and father in a romantic comedy.

Arthur Godfrey makes his motion picture debut in the role of operator of the glass bottom sightseeing boat, and the all-fun cast co-stars John McGiver, Paul Lynde as a security guard (wait until you see the scene in which Lynde disguises himself as a glamorous "debutante" in an attempt to expose Doris!), Edward Andrews as a general who does most of his fighting in bed, Eric Fleming as a CIA agent, Dom De Luise as the most inept clock-and-dagger sleuth you've ever encountered, and Dick Martin as "Zack", Rod Taylor's partner and the first to suspect that Doris is leaking information about GISMO, a revolutionary new space invention.

Doris, infuriated at the thought that Rod makes love to her only in an attempt to unmask her supposed spying activities, decides to take matters in her own hands and really gives him something to worry about—a plot which backfires when the formula for GISMO is found in her purse. How she extricates herself from this predicament in the midst of madcap chases, gun duels and a variety of preposterous and hilarious situations makes for a comedy that can easily boast of a laugh per minute!

New York Says: 'Aloha There!'

NEW YORK (AP)—TV New York city said aloha to Hawaii last week, with a benefit premier and party for the opening of the film based on James Michener's best-selling novel about the islands.

Some 1,400 celebrities watched the movie, then went to a $150-a-plate dinner and dance billed as the Hoolaulea Ball, and benefiting the Will Rogers Hospital and the O'Donnell Memorial Research Laboratories.

Sharing star billing in the movie and at the festivities were Max von Sydow and Julie Andrews who play missionary Abner Hale and his wife in the film.

Anne Ford, general chairman of the event, estimated that it would raise more than $200,000 for charity. She said that $120 of the ticket price, went to the charity.

Swinging Sinatra Group Root For Democrat Brown

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Strangers in the night... scuby duby doo... strangers in the night."

Frank Sinatra was singing his latest hit song not for the craps-shooters of Las Vegas, but for Democrats and other persons willing to pay from $3 to $10 for a Night of Stars at the Los Angeles Sports Arena. Other stars at the show last week were Joey Bishop, Danny Kaye, Trini Lopez, Dean Martin, Keely Smith, Danny Thomas and Nancy Wilson. Their purpose was to raise money and enthusiasm for Edmund G. Brown's campaign for governor.

The swinging Sinatra group for the Democrats is countered by the folksier support among actors for Republican candidate Ronald Reagan. When Reagan appeared at home for a telecast last week, he was accompanied by such homespun types as Walter Brennan, Buddy Ebsen, George Changer (once Grandpa on Lassie) and Andy Devine.

Such Democrats as Kirk Douglas, Burt Lancaster, Gene Kelly, Dan Blocker (Hoss, in Bonanza) and John Forsythe appear on television spot announcements with the theme: "I could play a governor in a movie, but I don't have the ability to be one."

Ronald Reagan does have that ability, argue such Republicans as Pat Boone, Irene Dunne, Chuck Connors, Ruby Keeler, Fred MacMurray, Roy Rogers, Fess Parker and John Wayne.

This autumn's outburst of political activity by actors is the greatest ever seen for a state campaign. The reason is both ideological and personal: aside from their political feelings, many actors feel strongly about whether one of their profession is or is not first for high public office.

The use of actors as political campaigners is a phenomenon of the radio-television era.

Franklin D. Roosevelt sparked the real beginnings of political activities for actors. They admired his sympathy for the common man, his own actor-like talent with his fireside chats.

"Roosevelt is the only president who ever did anything for actors," said Tallulah Bankhead, herself the daughter of a Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives and niece of a U.S. senator.

Canadian Film
Handed Praise

LONDON (CP)—A Canadian film about life in jail, designed to train prison officers, has been commended by the Royal Society of Arts in its award for the best Commonwealth documentary made for a specific public purpose in its own country.

The Prison Community, made by the National Film Board of Canada in 1965, illustrates the conflicts that arise in jail between the official code of behavior and the prisoners' own code, showing how this can hinder a prisoner's rehabilitation.

The top award, a silver medal given in alternate years, went to Swaziland's Lubalo (The Census), a color film made as part of a local government campaign to prepare the people for independence.

Film On Soviet

Russia is the topic of the travelogue film coming to the Kelowna Community Theatre Nov. 4 at 8:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the Kelowna Rotary Club, the film will have Richard Reddy as narrator. Mr. Reddy is an award-winning explorer and photographer.

The film will show camping trips in Russia, the village life and a boat trip on the Black Sea.

Life inside the winter palace will be shown as well as places in Smolensk, Moscow, Leningrad and Bikini Beach.

Moviegoers will see a naval parade, cathedrals, monuments, inside the Kremlin Wall, the Bolshoi Theatre, the University of Moscow, scenes from the religious life and Yalta, the site where Roosevelt and Churchill met Stalin.

Wilder Off
On A Tour

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producer-director - writer Billy Wilder, a man with a seeming distaste for interviews, is embarking on a personal appearance tour, on which he will be interviewed profusely.

Wilder viewed the prospect sourly in his Goldwyn Studio office, where he was interviewed about his forthcoming interviews. That gave him no particular pleasure, either.

"I don't like it, but I'm going," said the film maker, who was booked for appearances in New Orleans, Chicago, New York and Europe. "I don't look forward to the onslaught of questions, which become so standardized that I reply by rote. The trouble is that when you get out of this town, the average interviewer doesn't know what to ask, and you end by making up your own questions."

The reason for Wilder's enforced travels is a film called The Fortune Cookie. It is another one of Wilder's acid views of mid-century America, concerning a shyster lawyer (Walter Matthau) who cons his brother-in-law (Jack Lemmon) into faking an injury to win a settlement.

DISLIKES GREED

Wilder has been on this anti-greed kick through The Apartment and Kiss Me, Stupid. The former won the best-picture academy award and lots of money at the box office; the latter did neither.

"I bow to the opinion of the masses on Kiss Me, Stupid," said Wilder. He expressed irritation that the film had been mentioned and offered the advice of an old adage: "In the house of the hanged, one should not speak of rope."

Era Of Paramount t Ended
With Purchase By Gulf

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After 50 years as one of the film industry's liveliest companies, Paramount Pictures has ceased to exist as a separate corporation.

Last week Paramount was withdrawn from the New York Stock Exchange trading, its final price at 76%. Stockholders voted to merge the movie concern with the Texas-based Gulf and Western Industries, which previously had no investments in the entertainment field.

The merger followed an industry trend. Entertainment companies have been seeking stability in large diversified firms as parent concerns, thus avoiding the periodic depressions that can come with changes in public tastes.

The first half-century of Paramount's history provided many excellent years, especially during the depression, some bad ones. The company was founded July 19, 1916, with its original merger—Adolph Zukor's Famous Players - Lasky films. He also brought forth films on an epic scale—The Covered Wagon, Cecil B. DeMille's The Ten Commandments (1923). Zukor paid his top stars handsomely: Toronto-born Mary Pickford was given $1,000,000 a year to remain with the company.

BUYS THEATRES

Zukor believed in bigness, and in 1919 he started buying up theatres to provide showcases for Famous Players - Lasky films. He also brought forth films on an epic scale—The Covered Wagon, Cecil B. DeMille's The Ten Commandments (1923). Zukor paid his top stars handsomely: Toronto-born Mary Pickford was given $1,000,000 a year to remain with the company.

Paramount, as it has been called since 1927, fell on bad times during the depression. The weight of empty theatres carried the corporation down to bankruptcy in 1933. Reorganization in 1935 revived Paramount and the company began its most glorious years.

The studio specialized in smart, escapist entertainment during the late 1930s and through the 1940s. Bing Crosby and Bob Hope set the tone for the Paramount product and the atmosphere at the studio — breezy, informal, fun-filled.

In 1949, the federal government directed Paramount and other companies to separate production from exhibition. Paramount Theatres combined with the ABC network. The studio continued to thrive, especially on the later epics of Cecil B. DeMille. But the declining market and internal problems brought a decline in Paramount's fortunes. The industry hopes the trend can be reversed by the infusion of new capital from Gulf and Western.

George Was Film Star Then
Now He Stars In Politics

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The junior senator from California, Republican George Murphy, once played Elizabeth Taylor's father in Cynthia and starred in such movies as A Girl, A Guy and a Dog and Up Goes Maisie.

The Republican candidate and leader in polls for governor of California has starred in She's Working her Way through College and Cattle Queen of Montana and has done a soft-shoe dance in a Las Vegas act.

The advent in politics of Murphy and Ronald Reagan has provided the most populous U.S. state with its liveliest campaigns since novelist Upton Sinclair ran for governor in 1934.

It's not entirely new for actors to seek public office. Helen Gahagan Douglas, a stage actress, who appeared in one movie, She (1935), was a member of Congress from California's 14th district from 1944 to 1950. Then she ran for the Senate against Richard M. Nixon, lost and hasn't returned to politics.

Lucile Webster Gleason, actress-wife of character actor James Gleason, and screen heavy Albert Dekker were elected to the state assembly during the 1940s. Dekker quit when his annual earnings fell from $68,000 as an actor to $2,000 in the state legislature.

John Lodge, who made love to Marlene Dietrich in The Scarlet Empress, became governor of Connecticut. Jimmie Davis, screen cowpoke and composer of You Are My Sunshine, served as governor of Louisiana.

Candidate Reagan prefers to play down his show business past. Among his rare pronouncements: "We had a heritage a generation ago that actors were irresponsible nomads, but I think we've lived that down."

Senator Murphy is more expansive, arguing that his screen reputation did him good: "People remember me from the late, late show. Don't forget, I was always the good guy."

Where will it end?

Some say with the nomination of Charlton Heston as president of the United States. After all, they argue, he has already played Thomas Jefferson on television, Andrew Jackson in movies and Franklin D. Roosevelt on the stage. How could you beat a man who also bears the image of Moses, John the Baptist, Michaelangelo, El Cid and Ben-Hur?

DOGS KEEP COMPANY

FM Fan-Fare

By Charles Patrick

Judy LaMarsh, Canada's secretary of state and minister of culture, recently struck a verbal high note to sing the praises of quality broadcast programs when she was addressing the Central Canada Broadcasters Association. She stated, "don't give me that bit about advertisers not being interested in high class, programs or even culture," and then went on to cite examples of "how Beethoven outdrew the Beatles" one night in New York when the Philharmonic program sponsored by a brewing company made New York musical history recently. This and a number of other good examples of culture trends in program sponsorships were recently carried in a UPI news release out of Toronto.

The dynamic Miss LaMarsh doesn't fool around when making a point. As minister of Canada's cultural corner, she understandably will plump for moving it out and into areas of action. Those who want the lively arts and other cultures to flourish with new promise will applaud Judy's jousts with the great unwashed.

Those who might be expected to plow dollars into breaking cultural ground might well ask: who will bell the cultural cat? The broadcasters listening to the minister were being given of course her examples of development in broadcasting areas in the eastern United States. It would seem that she was recommending that what was sauce for the American cultural goose, namely advertisers, could also be sauce for the Canadian cultural gander.

LAYING EGGS

Because Miss LaMarsh recognizes that advertisers in broadcasting are the geese that hopefully will lay the golden eggs for cultural digestion in programming, she is wise. However, it would seem that advertisers can be nervous about laying cultural eggs. This historical neurosis would seem to be due for abatement however, according to Miss LaMarsh's findings. The affluent society of today it appears, is hungry for self-improvement and aspire to tasteful new foods, touring to new places and exploring what may be for them new cultures. Many citizens of less affluent means than the latter, because of the trends toward things with more meaning, are also following closely behind on the trail to discovery of new areas of fulfillment. Good luck to Miss LaMarsh and her pitch to the eastern Canadian Broadcasters. We'll look forward to the cultural barometer rising as a result of advertisers acceptance of the trend, as well as the public's at the western end.

On CJOV-FM as with other Canadian stations, we are already geared to at least a 20 per cent provision for classical music and programs offering gems of the voice arts both in song and spoken word. The Board of Broadcast Governors ask that we follow this pattern in such an area, at least. The day we feel public demand for more it will be considered. But, meanwhile, we have a pulse reading that suggests 20 per cent is ample if we intend to please those who desire FM fare that is variable and that provides entertainment the larger percentage of our growing audience prefer. And, this other 80 per cent FM fare after all should please most listeners, and not offend the classicists among them either.

BURTON DR. FAUSTUS

The week ahead on CJOV-FM has some commendable bright spots worthy of special mention. For this evening's fare we recommend lovers of folk songs will enjoy World of Folk at 8:10. Nine until 10 p.m. Symphony Hall will feature The Vienna Philharmonic with Berlin. Symphony Fantastic. On Saturday evening the symphony concert is heard at 7 to 8 p.m. Tomorrow evening, Gary Graffman, pianist will be accompanied by Leonard Bernstein's New York Philharmonic in a Rachmaninoff Concert.

Sunday's Classics For A Sunday Morning is always a beautiful experience in light concert works attune to the hours of 9 to 11. The afternoon period will become charged with football dynamics starting at 2 p.m. Lions of B.C. meet the Winnipeg crew in Vancouver. Premiere of Music will be heard at 4:30 p.m. this Sunday due to football. Gord Bromley will open his newest albums and among much that's pleasant he was especially enthusiastic about the Royal Highland Fusiliers recorded while on their current American Tour. "Great band sound with stirring pipes, drums and bugles" says Gord. Tony Lockhart gets back into his World of Music program in person this Sunday, with Gloria hostessing at 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. It'll be nice to hear his voice again. Sunday evening on Strings and Things at 8 to 10 p.m., Stanley Holloway tells stories of Old Sam and other

Outlook Was Dismal Then But Pasadena Theatre Won

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—On the night that the Revenuers padlocked the famed Pasadena Playhouse for nonpayment of taxes, executive producer Albert McCleery stood outside the theatre with actors Victor Jory and Leon Ames.

They watched as Playhouse students staged an impromptu entertainment in the street to raise money for their Moribund alma mater. A former student, Chris Connolly of Peyton Place, sweetened the kitty with $200, and other onlookers gave $1,300. "I looked at those kids, playing their hearts out where all theatre began—in the gutter," McCleery recalls. "That's when I told myself: We're going to make it."

On that bleak night in August, the outlook was dismal. Armed internal revenue officers swept into the Playhouse and closed it because of $30,000 in tax arrears. The theatre, with a 50-year history and more prominent alumni in movies than any other drama school, seemed unable to extricate itself.

But Pasadena and Hollywood rallied behind it. A local tele-memorable types. Don Ameche and Francis Langford of old time radio fame come alive also with a new domestic comedy sketch or three as The Bickersons. The usual music fare makes it nice too.

Comedy Star Time Tuesday at 4 and 10 p.m. has the new comedy King Bill Cosby. Gilbert and Sullivan's Patience is Wednesday at 9 p.m. Richard Burton, Liz Taylor and the Oxford University Players perform Marlowe's famed historic drama, J. Faustus on FM Theatre Thursday at 4 and 10 p.m.

thon raised $7,000. A star-filled benefit produced $11,000. Pasadena's of all walks of life contributed money and supplies. A campaign by The Star-News and Independent brought donations. "Without the two newspapers we wouldn't be open today," says McCleery.

The Playhouse is open and doing fine business with Captain Brass-Bound's Conversion, the George Bernard Shaw play starring Celeste Holm. Last weekend a second, bandbox theatre began a run of Stop The World—I Want To Get Off. Community support continues to grow. The five restaurants near the Playhouse are busy every night," said McCleery. "That's a good sign. Theatre—going should be an event, an important occasion when local citizens dine out before the show."

MARY PICKFORD, sweetheart of silent film days, and her husband Charles (Buddy) Rogers.

America's Sweetheart Hides From Publicity

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nowadays Mary Pickford seldom leaves Pickfair, the stately white mansion from which she and Douglas Fairbanks once ruled Hollywood society.

She lives there with her third husband, former leading man Buddy Rogers. Now 73, she prefers to have the public remember her as she appeared in her heyday as America's sweetheart, the most popular female star of the silent screen. Yet when she appeared at a luncheon for Princess Margaret last year, she seemed as petite and lovely as ever.

Speaking on the telephone from Pickfair—she declines in-person interviews—she sounded sprightly. What has she been doing?

"Mostly having accidents," she said ruefully. "The first thing I did was to fall down the stairs and smash my ribs. After I got over that, I stooped over and lost my balance. My ankle twisted and I fell and fractured my spine."

"But I'm getting along fine

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Charlton Heston has been re-elected for a second term as president of the Screen Actors Guild, it was announced Sunday.

now, and Buddy and I are leaving on the 29th for Hawaii." IS NOT ILL

Toronto - born Miss Pickford pooh-poohed a columnist's report that she was desperately ill and down to 90 pounds.

"I've never weighed less than 98 and most of the time I was 110," she said.

The Taming of the Shrew, which she made in 1929 with Fairbanks, is being released next month. How does she feel about the film?

"I was rather pleasantly surprised when I saw it again," she said. "I always thought Douglas was so much better in the film than I was, but my opinion is not so now. I had thought I had done poorly as the shrew, but then I was always on the conservative side where my work was concerned."

Miss Pickford admitted she didn't see many of today's movies. "I've gotten out of the habit—and movie-going is a habit," she said. "It's too hard to go out to the theatre, although I do like to see movies in drive-ins. The trouble with most movies nowadays is that they're too long. The end of my spine won't sit that long."

She sees a lot of television—but has a common complaint: "The commercials are getting longer and longer."

The Taming of the Shrew was Miss Pickford's first talkie and she made only three more: Coquette (Academy Award, best actress), Kiki and Secrets.

Space Age Changes 'Vital' To Canadian Broadcasting

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is on the verge of space-age changes in broadcasting and faces chaos if it does not adjust, a consulting firm contends in a brief to the Board of Broadcast Governors.

Broadcast Management Consulting Services says new techniques will make wholesale changes necessary not only in technology but in the kinds of programming and service offered by Canadian stations.

The Ajax, Ont., firm says that in about five years land-based microwave television networks will disappear. They will be replaced by a Canadian space satellite or one shared by Canada with one or more nations.

Not long after that, home-receiving sets will be able to pick up TV signal reflections direct from orbiting satellites, opening up an abundance of programs from a host of countries for every viewer across the country.

With such a wide choice available from outside the country, viewers will watch foreign programs unless there are drastic changes in the present TV structure in Canada, the consulting firm predicts.

The company will submit its brief at a BBG hearing here next week.

CALLS SPECIAL MEETING

The board called the special hearing to discuss availability of current very high frequency TV channels and how to go about opening up additional channels in the ultra high frequency range.

The consulting service says first use of space satellites will be for the publicly-owned CBC network and the privately-owned CTV network to bounce signals off the satellite from a single station to other main stations along the network. These would continue to relay the signal to home receivers.

But the next stage would make each home receiver capable of receiving the reflected signals from many satellites without an intermediate station.

"... The whole of Canada will be within reach of not only Canadian satellite programs but also those of other nations."

Broadcast Management draws a comparison between these TV developments and the growth of local radio across Canada. Radio stations no longer had the big studios and the pianos and organs that once were an essential part of their equipment.

Local radio now made extensive use of high quality recorded music because of new recording techniques.
